

$1,000,000 ALLOTTED MIDDLE WEST BY RASKOB

He Plans to Spend Fourth of Total for Nation in Campaign in Corn Belt States.

WARNS AGAINST DEFENSIVE STAND

Democratic Leaders Finishing Conferences Today—
To Attend Robinson Notification Tomorrow.

After a day of conferences with party leaders of eight Middle Western states, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, announced today that the party's national campaign budget would call for the expenditure of $1,000,000 in the Middle West, or one-fourth of the entire budget of $4,000,000.

Half of this sum, Raskob said,
would be spent in the 600 rural counties of the 10 corn-belt states,
and the remainder in the industrial and metropolitan communities.
"The National Committee plans to spend $500,000 in selling the Democratic party's platform to the farmers of the Middle West," Raskob declared. "It is safe to estimate that it will cost as much more to sell the platform to the non-farmers of the section. In addition, the committee plans to spend $100,000 for radio campaigning throughout the United States."

Complete County Organization.
"Our reports from rural communities of the Middle West indicate that a majority of the newspapers throughout the agricultural section are normally Republican in policy.
We shall therefore take other means to reach the voters with Gov. Smith's vigorous advocacy of quality for agriculture. It is our plan to operate an organization in each county of these states."

Although Chairman Raskob and a group of National Democratic leaders will remain in St. Louis until this evening, the work for which they came here was virtually completed with a dinner at Hotel Jefferson last night, attended by Democratic leaders from eight states of this region who had discussed their problems and proposed with the national chairman
in a series of conferences yesterday.

The delegates were returning to their home states today and the national leaders, with Senator Harry W. Hawes, campaign chairman for this region, are devoting the day to smaller local problems. They will depart at 10:30 p. m. for Hot Springs, Ark., to attend the notification ceremonies for Senator Joseph T.
Robinson, vice presidential nominee, tomorrow.

The dinner last night was attended by about 150 men and women
back of the eight states in the region—Missouri, Illinois, Kansas, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Kentucky,
Tennessee and Iowa—was represented by a Contact Committee of seven men and seven women, including State chairmen, regional vice chairmen and national, state and congressional committeemen
and committeewomen.

Warn Against Defensive Stand.
In a brief talk, Chairman Raskob urged the campaigners to refrain from any mud-slinging in their work and cautioned them to waste
no time in defending Tammany Hall against its critics.
"Tammany Hall is an organization which exerts its power solely in Manhattan Island," he declared.
"It has never sought to influence
Gov. Smith in his actions as Governor of New York."

"I do not mean to say that Gov.
Smith has ignored Tammany Hall.
He has consulted its leaders about matters affecting the Island of Manhattan, just as he has consulted Norman Mack about matters affecting Buffalo."

"Let us not permit the Republicans to maneuver us into defending our candidate, our party or our platform. Our job is one of salesmanship. In business the best salesman is the one who sells his product without condemning the product of his competitor, regardless of what methods the competitor may use."

DR. WORK DENIES G. O. P. BUDGET EXCEEDS $4,000,000

Calls Raskob's Statement That Sum Is More Than $6,000,000 As Absurd As His Election Claims.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Before going into conference today with J. R. Nutt of Cleveland, national treasurer, and others handling party finances, Chairman
Work of the Republican National Committee announced that the original budget of the between $3-000,000 and $4,000,000 for the presidential campaign had not been extended.

Dr. Work's statement was issued in reply to one John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, that Raskob had information that the Republican budget was between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000.

"Yesterday's press dispatches

from St. Louis quoted Mr. Raskob
as claiming 303 electoral votes for Gov. Smith," Work said. "In the solid South, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, New York, New Jersey,
Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Arizona,
Colorado, Maryland, Massachusetts,
Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska,
Missouri, New Mexico and Nevada."
"This morning's papers quote Mr.
Raskob as saying 'he has information' that the Republican budget is between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000."
"One statement is as absurd as the other."
"Our original budget of $3,000,000
to $4,000,000 has not been extended."

GOV. SMITH AT BEDSIDE OF DYING BROOKLYN PRIEST

Calls On Aged Father Farrell, Who Had Been Confessor of the Nominer's Mother.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Laying aside the political demands of a campaign, Gov. Alfred E. Smith
last night went unannounced to the rectory of the Catholic Church of the Assumption in Cranberry street, Brooklyn, to sit for an hour
at the bedside of Father William D. Farrell, for 22 years rector and pastor of the church, who is dying
of the infirmities of age.

Accompanied by William J. Kenny and Representative William J.
Reardon, the Governor drove to Brooklyn at 9 o'clock and was escorted to the rectory where the three men, all friends of the pastor, tried to cheer the priest, who knew that death was only a matter of a short time.
The Governor's regard for the veteran priest rests largely on the fact that Father Farrell was the confessor and pastor of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Smith, who died
three years ago.

SHERIFF ON TRAIL OF FLEAS FINDS SIX STOLEN AUTOS

One of Three Men Arrested Says
He Is Grandson of Jesse James.

By the Associated Press.
CARLINVILLE, Ill., Aug. 26.— Jesse James Jr., 27 years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., who says he is the grandson of the Missouri outlaw, today confessed the theft of an automobile in Brimfield, Ind.

James was arrested by Sheriff Stubbsfield yesterday and six stolen automobiles were recovered.
Eugene Dodson, 31 years old, and Robert Moffett were arrested as members of an automobile stealing ring. The Sheriff had heard that Dodson and Moffett had gone down "full of fleas." He and his deputies set out on a flea hunt
and finally discovered a haystack infested with fleas. Nearby they found the stolen cars. Today they found three more at a place where they had been told 77 were hidden.

James cleared himself of connection with ring, but admitted
the Indiana theft.

Mexico City Burglar Lynched.

By the Associated Press.
EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 29.—A dispatch from El Continental today disclosed that a burglar was lynched
last night after attempting to rob an aged man at his home in Mexico City. Neighbors who captured the burglar stoned him and beat him with sticks and he died soon after.

SPECIAL SESSION TO ACT ON AIRPORT BONDS

Aldermen Probably Will Meet
Tuesday to Pass Ordinance Authorizing Sale.

A special session of the Board of Aldermen has been called by Acting Mayor Neun to institute the legislation for expenditure of the $2,000,000 in bonds for the municipal airport voted by the people,
Aug. 7.

The date of the session has not been fixed definitely, depending on the first day when a majority of the Aldermen can be present, but it probably will be next Tuesday.
Three meetings probably will be held, on successive days, as the matter is a formality to be disposed of quickly. The ordinance to go before the board is one authorizing the Mayor and Comptroller to sell the bonds.

This action is a prerequisite to the friendly suit to be filed in the courts to test legality of the bond issue as a safeguard for purchasers.
As has been explained, the State Constitution makes no provision for municipal bonds for a flying field, but the courts are expected to approve such an issue.

The city's special bond counsel
will arrange for an injunction suit against sale of the bonds in the name of some taxpayer, and an effort will be made to expedite this through the Supreme Court of Missouri.

An option to purchase part of the enlarged site of the airport, Lambert-St. Louis Field, will expire on Nov. 15 and the suit may not be decided by then. Director of Public Welfare Salisbury, in charge of the airport, has suggested that the best step would be for the city to advance money for purchase of this land from its general treasury, subject to reimbursement from the bond fund. The land would cost a great deal more after expiration of the option. Comptroller Nolte was not prepared to comment on the suggestion.

13 UNION MUSICIANS IN PIT WITH PAY, AND NOTHING TO DO

Chicago Theater Forced to Hire Them, Although Play Has No Music.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A dispute between owners of legitimate theaters and union musicians was settled early today when the Theater Managers' Association signed a two-year contract granting musicians an increase in pay from $77 to $90 a week. Extra musicians and players in burlesque houses
also got increases by the agreement, which affects 300 orchestra players.

Threatened difficulties in theaters showing talking moviess were averted when owners granted demands of musicians that at least six players be retained in show houses whenever "talkies" are shown.

The play "Whispering Friends," which was prevented from opening Monday night because of failure of orchestra leaders and the management of the Illinois Theater to reach an agreement, was given last night.
The play calls for no music, but under the agreement a 13-piece orchestra was in the pit and is to be retained during the run.

Convicted on Blind Man's Word.

By the Associated Press.
LYNN, Mass., Aug. 29.—Alfred Duplisse was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction today for stealing 18 cents
from the cup of a blind man. Du-plisse said he was not guilty, but the blind man, Fred Niland, testified that Duplisse's voice was the same as that of the man who had talked to him just before his 18 cents had been taken. Judge Reese accepted Niland's testimony and found Duplisse guilty.

WESTERN ROADS' PAY CONTROVERSY SETTLED BY U. S.

Mediation Board Effects Compromise Between Representatives of Lines and Employees.

70,000 AFFECTED
BY AGREEMENT

Brotherhoods of Conductors
and Trainmen Must Ratify Pact Before It Becomes Binding.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Differences between Western railroads and employees organized in the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen
and the Order of Railway Conductors are expected to be reconciled
by an agreement announced here
yesterday by the United States Board of Mediation, which has been in conferences with representatives of both groups since July 22.

The proposed settlement, details
of which cannot yet be made public under the law, must be ratified
by the Association of General Committees on behalf of the railway employees before it goes into effect.
A. F. Whitney, president of the Trainmen, will present it to the association at a meeting in the near future. He signed it for his organization and E. P. Curtis signed as president of the Conductors.

Chairman Samuel E. Winslow of the Board of Mediation said denial of approval by the employees' representatives would continue the dispute as heretofore, with it having
"to be treated in accordance with law." He disclosed, however, that the employees' organizations had agreed to allow the Board of Mediation "a reasonable opportunity to proceed under the law, so far as the calling of a strike was concerned, before any further action had been initiated on the part of the employees."

Wages and working rules were the chief questions involved in the dispute, which affected 70,000 employes of 80 railroads with 98 per cent of the mileage west of Chicago.
Proposals of the employees for pay increases ranging from 10 to 18 per cent brought an offer by the railroads for increases averaging 7 1/2 per cent, provided that certain working rules be abandoned. While accepting the wage compromise,
the employees had declined to drop
the working rules.

Board's Action Disposes of Last Major Disputes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—With the settlement of the threatened strike of conductors and trainmen
on the western railroads the United States Board of Mediation has disposed of all the major controversies pending before it.

During the two years of its existence this board, created by the railway labor act for the adjustment of industrial disputes on the transportation systems of the country, has disposed of 275 cases involving more than 1,000,000 railroad workers.

Most cases have been adjusted by mediation, 143 cases being handled
by this method of voluntary agreement and only 38 by the judicial process of arbitration.

During the life of the mediation
board there has been no serious interruption of traffic, although strikes affecting a large section of the country have been threatened on several occasions.

In only one case has it been necessary for the board to request the President to intervene by the creation of an emergency board. That was the case of the four brother-hoods and the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad which reached a deadlock and threatened interruption of traffic on the entire system. This emergency board brought about a settlement by securing substantial concessions from the employees and the railroad.

The railway labor act creating the Board of Mediation was sponsored by the principal railroad executives and labor organizations and provides as far as possible a system of voluntary settlements of industrial difficulties in place of the plan of Government coercion
set forth in the Esch-Cummins bill opposed by the railroads and the labor unions. The latest settlement completes the adjustment of a great wage movement initiated by the four railroad brotherhoods,
and covering the entire United States and Canada. More than 600, 000 engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen were involved in this movement and the total wage increases which they have received are estimated at some $47,000,000
a year.

REPORT READY ON NEW FEDERAL BUILDING SITE

Engineer Collier Silent, but Is Said to Favor Twelfth and Olive or Tract Opposite City Hall.

"STAGE MONEY" IN SOME BIDS, HE SAYS

He Will Send Recommendation to Treasury Department—Eleven Bids Received.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The report of the Division of Public Buildings of the United States
Treasury Department, who arrived in St. Louis nine days ago, has concluded his inspection of proposed sites for the new Federal Building here and will make his report, with recommendations, to the Treasury Department at Washington within the week.

Collier refused to discuss his report or recommendations. It is understood, however, that he has looked with particular favor on the site at the southwest corner of Twelfth boulevard and Olive street, adjoining the Missouri Pacific building and formerly occupied by the old Merchants' Hotel, and the site of the Jefferson Garage on Twelfth, opposite the City Hall.

"Stage Money."
Eleven bids, ranging from $350,000 to $1,672,000, have been received by the Treasury Department in response to a Government advertisement, asking for offers on a site. Collier said he had inspected these 11 parcels of ground and also other parcels which had not been offered by the owners and on which no price had been fixed.

Asked if the prices set by the owners were considered fair by the Government, Collier replied:
"It appears to me there's a lot of stage money involved in some of these bids."

"This Happened Elsewhere."
"You know," Collier continued,
"we inspectors have some peculiar experiences. Out West not long ago I went to inspect a site which had been offered to the Government at a certain price. I went to the owner and I told him: 'This site is just about what the Government wants, but your price is out of line and unless you can revise it there is no use considering your offer further.' The fellow scratched his head a minute and replied: 'Well, I'll tell you—the vest I'm doing is out of the price in two.'"

Whether the Government accepted
Collier did not say.

Questioned about a proposed site
in the block bounded by Seventh and Eighth streets, Lucas and Morgan avenues, Collier said: "A great many business men have been urging this particular site."

Asked if this site were not too far from the center of the downtown business district, Collier answered: "It would seem so, yet it is only 650 feet from the present Federal Building."

Plans Not Yet Drawn.
"There are two prime factors in the selection of a site for a Federal Building," Collier explained. "They are the convenience of the Government departments to be housed in the building and the convenience of the public. The site need not be one considered advantageous for a private business, as the Government is not in competition."

The number of floors for the new Federal Building and other structural details depend upon the site selected, and for that reason no plans for the building have been drawn to date, Collier added.

In order to eliminate rentals,
the Government wants to house
all Federal offices in the Federal Building if possible, Collier said.
The Government desires to house
a downtown postoffice in the new Federal Building—an arrangement
in effect in the present building—
but this has not been decided upon.

Collier said he had made a "thoroughly independent" investigation of local real estate values and would include the results in his report to Washington.

MORROW TO HUNT WILDCATS

U. S. Ambassador to Spend 10 Days

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—United States Ambassador Morrow will spend a brief vacation early in September on a ranch in the State of Coahuila as the guest of its American owner, Hall Mangum.

During his stay on the ranch
Morrow expects to hunt wild turkeys, wildcats, bear and deer, and gather first hand information on the operation of a big Americanowned ranch in Mexico. He will be absent from Mexico City about 10 days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—One of the oddest suits in the history of the District of Columbia Supreme Court was filed yesterday by Mrs.
Amelia Facteau against John R.
Ragland, in which Mrs. Facteau alleges that she was attacked by a goose of "a mischievous, vicious,
excitable and violent disposition
and propensity," owned by Ragland, and she asks for $10,000 damages.

The goose attacked her, she says,
while she was quietly returning from church on a recent Sunday morning. As the result of the attack, she said, she had been thrown to the ground, had cut her chin,
and fractured her wrist. Her nervous system, she says, has been adversely affected as the result of her experience with the "web-footed foe" of the goose species."

BELLEVEILLE OUT OF DEBT FOR FIRST TIME IN 58 YEARS

Next Saturday the 27,000 citizens of Belleville, Ill., will be able, as a corporate body, to face the world and say, "We don't owe a penny to any man." The city of Belleville will emerge from the role of debtor
under Mayor J. J. Anton, in a ceremony on the steps of the City Hall, will burn the last $5000 bond of an indebtedness that totaled $124,000
in 1901.

"It will be a grand and glorious feeling," said the Mayor. "We'll be out of debt for the first time in 58 years."
The original indebtedness, incurred in 1870 to obtain railroad facilities, was funded in 1890, and since 1901 has been paid off at the rate of $5000 annually.

POISONER'S HUSBAND FINED AS BOOTLEGGER

Still Once Found on Farm
Where Mrs. Gifford Admits Killing Three.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

UNION, Mo., Aug. 29.—Mrs.
Bertha Gifford, 56-year-old farm
wife and mother of two children who confessed she poisoned three persons, again refused solid food
today and would eat only ice cream in her Franklin County cell.

She chatted pleasantly with "Gene" Gifford, her husband, yesterday, but when other persons, including Sheriff Gorg, visited her section of the jail, she crawled under a blanket.

Prosecuting Attorney F. W. Jeremy, who built up the case against the woman indicted for two murders of the three she admits, returned to Union today. Mrs. Gifford will not have an opportunity to plead to the two charges against her until Nov. 12, when the Circuit Court will sit. Prosecuting Attorney Jeremy is expected to complete gathering evidence in the case early in September.

Despite her confession to Chief of Police McDonnell of Webster Groves, who arrested her last Saturday at her home near Eureka in St. Louis County, Mrs. Gifford
may plead not guilty. On a second examination by Sheriff Gorg
of Franklin County and Chief Mc-

cause her confession was made public and said: "Maybe I'll deny it all now."

Philip Cracchiolo, also known as

ex-convict, was ambushed and killed by police last Thursday, was shot and killed last night as he drove his automobile on Chambers

For refusing to pay "protection"
money and for giving police the tip which set the trap for Davis, Cracchiolo was highly praised by Chief of Police Gerk, who said extortionist activities could be stamped out, if other prospective

PREPARATION TO ARREST TOOMBS IN CHICAGO MADE

His Investment House Adjudged Bankrupt, So His Immunity as Federal Witness Seems at End.

SIDENER WAITING WITH 4 WARRANTS

Papers for Removal to St. Louis of Man Accused of Looting International of $3,500,000.

Circuit Attorney Sidener, with an assistant, is in Chicago today with extradition warrants issued by Gov. Small of Illinois for the removal to St. Louis of Roy C. Toombs, charged with larceny and passing bogus stock certificates as agent of the International Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis in his alleged manipulations to loot the company of more than $3,500,000, and Toombs may be arrested at any time.

Toombs has remained away from St. Louis since insurance examiners in July reported International Life's surplus wiped out by his endeavors to cover the purchase by him of the company with its own assets. He has been living in apparent security in a Chicago hotel under protection of an order of the Federal bankruptcy court in that city.

Immediately after the extradition warrants were granted by Gov. Small 10 days ago, Circuit Attorney Sidener sent officers to Chicago to remove them, but they reported they were restrained from arresting him at that time by Reference in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles, who explained that Toombs' presence in Chicago was needed to aid in tracing assets of Toombs & Daily, his Chicago investment house. Toombs asserted the investment firm was solvent, but an order of the court yesterday adjudging it bankrupt, so there appears to be no further immediate need for his presence in Chicago.

Charges Against Toombs. The larceny charge against Toombs is based on his alleged theft of $104,000 of bonds from the company's assets. It has been down by insurance examiners that is actually removed a total of $3,500,000 from the company between October, 1927, and June, 1928. The other three charges are founded on alleged issuance of certificates of International Life Insurance Co. stock in excess of the authorized limit of $7,000 shares.

W. G. Darst, secretary of the company, who was brought from Chicago by Toombs, has made affidavit that he signed as secretary stock certificates in blank as to number of shares, but naming Toombs as owner, and sent them to him in Chicago at Toombs' order. There were 35 such certificates, and Darst has been arrested here in this connection. Darst's attorney, Jerome F. Dugan, of St. Louis, asserts his client knowingly did no wrong, stating he was hired more than a clerk and did as directed by the president of the company without knowing Toombs' intentions.

HUSBAND OF POISONER FINED

AS BOOTLEGGER

Catawissa and Pacific, by information from the St. Louis enforcement unit of the Prohibition Department. The files show that in 1924, a still was found on the 130 acre Frye farm, of which "Gene" Gifford was the tenant, and that Gifford was taken into custody by Agent Carol Byrd.

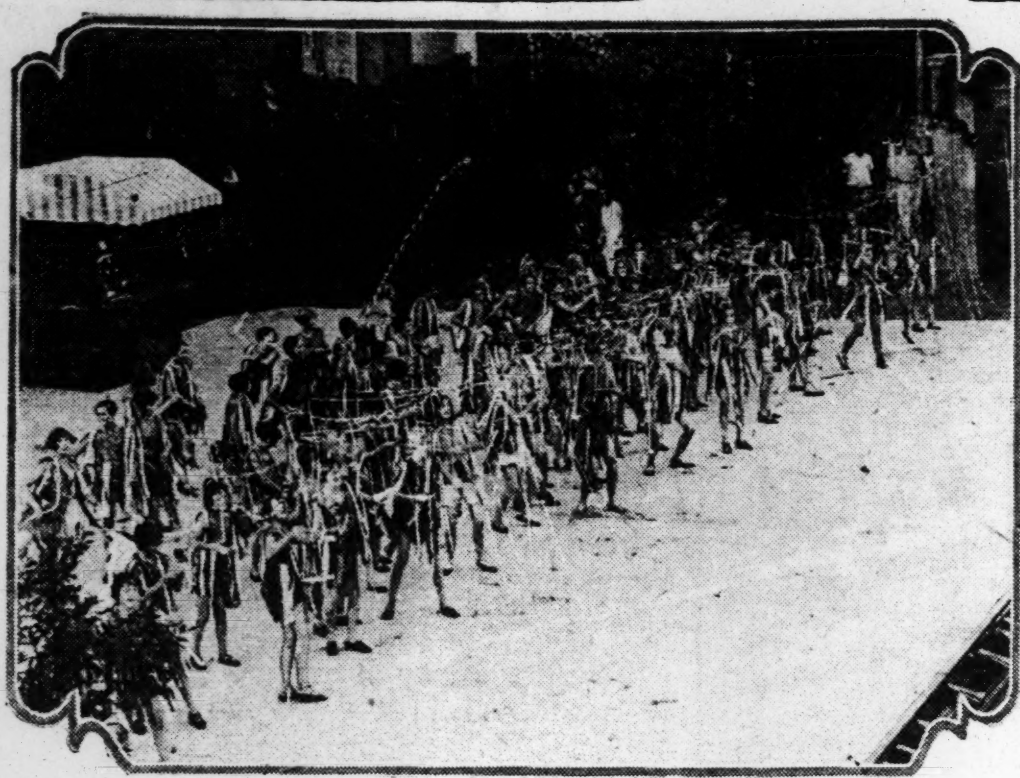

Gifford was found guilty by a jury in April, 1927, of having a still and several thousand gallons of mash in his possession and was fined $500.

So far the authorities have found no possible motive for the murder of the two Schamel children, sons of a bird man on the Gifford farm, or of "Ed" Brinley, who was carried into the Gifford house.

"Gene" Gifford declares calmly his belief in his wife's innocence. "I don't believe her confession," he said. "She was nervous when she said she gave arsenic to the Schamel children and to 'Ed' Brinley. She had high blood pressure and was responsible when her nerves got overwrought. They excited her and then she made those statements."

Gifford was not present at the confession which was made. He declined to say what his wife told him after she had confessed.

10,000 Children Attend Festival in Forest Park

"Pied Piper of Hamelin" Presented in Municipal Theater as Annual Pantomime of Municipal Playground Celebration.

The Pied Piper played his compelling music yesterday afternoon between the elf-haunted twin oaks of the Municipal Theater, and as every time the Piper has played in the 700 years since he came to Hamelin, many there were who followed him in fancy back to the land where rats turn sovereigns and "almost anything is" there more than likely to happen.

All the quaint requirements of Oberon were there. On the stage were the Oaks. Back in the leafy park was the Ash, and half those who filled the amphitheater were old enough to have felt the Thorns. On the stage in hundreds—and clinging to rails and sitting on chair-edges in great-eyed thousands—was the latest vital requisite, childhood to remind the elders that these shining bits of life in a few years would be only people. And that is an excellent frame of mind in which to re-enter fairyland.

10,000 Children Attend. This, too, was the one hour of the year when thousands of St. Louis grown-ups are openly invited back to fairyland—the hour for the annual pantomime of the Municipal Playground Festival. More than 10,000 children had had their hours on the Cricket Grounds in Forest Park. They had run their races, won and lost their bell games and tugs of war, eaten their hot dogs and ice cream cones and pickles and potato salad and boiled ham and cake, and virtually recovered from the consequent discomfort. It was time for them to abandon the hard reality of sliding to second for concession to the sentimental recollections—and pride—of Ma and the Old Man.

And what a concession! No portly broker, dimly homesick for the elves, could have asked for more. The great bowl filled. Music began. All at once the wide stage was a market place, crowded with women in the dress of another day, "going to the store," as diminutive Shierlocks in the audience deduced from the baskets. The women chatted and spanked naughty girls and danced, and then—

Pantomime Holds Attention. "Ooh, look at the great big old rat," squealed a 3-year-old onlooker. In scurried all the varieties of rats so gaily described by that "high-brow," Robert Browning, and out scurried the shrieking women.

Cats and dogs, unusually graceful for dogs and unusually graceful for cats, filled the stage and again were routed by the rats. Then the rats found their soulmates—a dozen cheeses, each with a slender sprite who danced with the rats in obvious harmony of soul.

Out tripped the lovers, and across the boards swept the smartly clad, ladle-rapping cooks (children of Tandy and Leffingwell Playgrounds), their bare chocolate feet twinkling with inborn sense of rhythm in one of the most striking dances of the whole hour. And then, "Look at all the blue ones," said the 3-year-old, and blue veils dropped in the dance of lamenting, for the rats were kings in Hamelin.

A brief pause but an impatient one for the watching youngsters, and the stage became the Mayor's banquet hall, where he and his corporation, traditionally careless of civic verities, were served by brightly dressed, shoe-tapping flocks of Dutch girls and an exquisite scarf dance.

But the townspeople interrupted with an irate demand for relief from either the rats or the Mayor and corporation. The city fathers were quaking "with mighty consternation" when in strode the piper, struck his bargain and danced his satisfaction.

Pied Piper Arrives. He lifted his pipe and the squealing, scampering rats danced after him out of the city and into the river. Gaily the village people celebrated about the Maypole until the weird red-and-yellow cloak of the Piper reappeared among them. He vainly demanded his fee and, angered, lifted his pipe again, and after him flocked the children, so happily and beautifully as to stir a thought of what the world would be like if all the children actually were shut up in a mountain.

There at the green shut gate in the mountain-side lamented the little lame boy who had been left behind. To him turned the people of Hamelin. The Piper heard his plea, and for the wealth of the city brought back the children. Showers of confetti, rocket-flares of colored ribbons and silvery, shivery childish cries of "Where!" in the finale could scarce express the conviction of proud grown-ups that the children were worth all "the wealth of the city" any day.

more, Eskimo rumors should always be received cautiously." Freuchen said he was glad to learn that the Danish explorer, Knud Rasmussen, was searching the flocks in the neighborhood where the Greater Rockford was seen 10 days ago. He said that this meant that capable work was being done in that vicinity.

MAN KILLED IN FALL
The body of John W. Carpenter, 45 years old, a proofreader, 5243 Jennings road, was found lying in an alley adjoining the Central Parking Co. Tenth and Walnut streets, shortly after 9 a. m. today.

It appeared that Carpenter had walked up the automobile ramp to the roof of the one-story building, from which he fell. He had suffered head injuries. Physicians at City Hospital said he had been dead about 12 hours.

Prisoners Fight in Cell.

Two men, who said they were Ellis Pullen, 43 years old, 1023 North Eighteenth street, and Roland Edwards, 37, 4921 Maple avenue, who were arrested while drunk on the street yesterday, later engaged in a fist fight in their cell at Carr Street Station, from the effects of which Pullen suffered a fractured skull. He was taken to city hospital and Edwards was charged with assault to kill.

ROCK ISLAND WINS FIGHT FOR BARGE LINE TERMINAL

War Department Approves Adverse Recommendation on Moline and Davenport.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—Rock Island, Ill., has been selected as the site of the tri-cities terminal for the Inland Waterways Corporation on the upper Mississippi Barge Line service.

The acting Secretary of War, Col. C. B. Robbins, today approved the recommendation of Walter F. Schulze, consulting engineer of the corporation, and has directed Major-General T. Q. Ashburn, head of the corporation, to locate the terminal in Rock Island.

Schulze, after reviewing testimony taken at a hearing before the advisory board of the corporation last month, submitted a revised report concerning the location of the terminal. This report, as did a previous report submitted last February, recommended Rock Island as the most desirable site without any qualification. Representatives of Moline, Ill., and Davenport, Ia., had endeavored to have the terminal located in their cities.

BAR OWNER WHO HELPED POLICE TRAP DAVIS IS LAID

witness at the inquest, but shed no light on the murder of his successor.

Found intoxicated in the 6400 block of Easton avenue at 4 a. m. Porris said he was drinking in the Wellston saloon last night and went riding with other men who were there. Porris did not recall much about the ride. He thinks he was thrown from the automobile.

Porris disclosed that he was in the saloon last Thursday afternoon, but departed 10 minutes before Davis was killed. As told at the time, the saloon proprietor had complained to the police that Davis was demanding "protection" money from him and other saloonkeepers.

Three St. Louis detectives and three county Deputy Sheriffs concealed themselves in a rear room and shot Davis when he entered and demanded the money. They reported Davis had attempted to draw a pistol. Two companions of Davis, who waited outside in an automobile, escaped.

Davis was buried Monday, the day on which the body of F. Louis Pohlmann, bootlegger associate of Cuckoo gangsters, was found on Bayless avenue near the Missouri Pacific tracks in the southern part of St. Louis County, shot seven times and thrown from an automobile.

Davis was under bond as a suspect in the mysterious murder of his friend, Clifford M. Hicks, attorney, politician and church worker, April 30, 1927.

Three Calls in a Week. Davis had made three visits in a week to the Watson saloon, demanding $25 each time. He told a Deputy Sheriff who met him near the saloon that he was forming an association to protect merchants from extortionists from the south end of the county, and that each merchant would be taxed $25. Davis had threatened to "blow up" the saloon if the money was not ready on his third call, and this was the reason, why Cracchiolo, unlike most other prospective victims, invoked the aid of the authorities.

Cuckoo gangsters with whom Davis associated are sought for questioning about the murder of Cracchiolo. In the last 13 months there have been 22 murders attributed to the Italian gang feud, in which Cuckoos have participated. In addition, there have been a number of killings involving gangsters, but not connected with the feud.

While Davis was being buried from Coroner Bopp's undertaking establishment at Bliskwood Monday, the body of Pohlmann was in the adjoining morgue, and today while Pohlmann was being buried, the body of Cracchiolo was in the morgue. A large floral wreath was on Pohlmann's casket with the inscription: "Sympathy from the Boys of South Broadway."

HOW BOY AND GIRLS CLUNG TO UPSET BOAT

Saved After 14 Hours in Lake Michigan—Fourth in Party Drowned.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—A sailboat, caught by a gust of wind, turned over Monday evening, dumping two girls and two boys into Lake Michigan, three miles off the Winnetka (Ill.) shore. One boy drowned. The others of the party, after clinging to the overturned boat for 14 hours, were saved. This is their story:

Originally they had planned to attend a theater, these four—Marjory Oleson, 17 years old; Shirley Conlee, 18; Harold Tarrant, 20, and Fred Rummel, 21, a Cornell sophomore. Instead, they went for a sail, without telling anyone of their intentions. It was this fact that kept their relatives in doubt for many hours as to their fate and prevented a prompt search being started.

When their boat went over, the four, all excellent swimmers and no trouble in pulling themselves up on the overturned boat.

Rescued Twice, Youth Drowns. Fred Rummel, who was drowned, joked and sang as the four clung to the slippery boat bottom. It was Rummel who led in the repeated shouts for help—shouts that went unheard through the night. When dawn broke, Rummel, exhausted from efforts to bring aid to them, slipped from the boat. Tarrant dived and brought him back to the boat. Again Rummel, his energy spent, rolled off into the water, and again Tarrant brought him back. This time Tarrant, although himself fast losing his strength, managed to get Rummel across the keel of the boat.

The sun was well up (about 9 o'clock, they reckoned, was the hour) when Rummel rolled off the boat for the third time. Tarrant went down after him. His hand grazed Rummel's body, but sinking into length to grasp the sinking youth, Rummel drowned, and Tarrant himself barely managed to return to the boat.

Finally Attract Coast Guard. Then Marjory became hysterical. Tarrant said in relating the adventure, and he decided he would attempt to swim to shore for help. After he had gone some distance, he said, he looked back.

"The girls, clinging to the boat, were such a pitiful sight," he said, "that I couldn't bring myself to leave them. So I swam back."

When Tarrant returned, Marjory, as she protested, started for her companions, started for shore. It was she, moving slowly toward the beach, which was in clear view though three miles distant, who led indirectly to the rescue of the others. A coast guard boat, searching for them, saw her and pulled her back to shore for rescue of Tarrant and Miss Conlee followed.

The two young women were in a hospital today, suffering from exhaustion. Tarrant was able to go home a few minutes after the coast guard boat docked.

All four are from prominent North Shore families. Rummel's father is a patent attorney, Miss Oleson's father is vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago, and Miss Conlee is the daughter of a loop broker. Tarrant's father is a Winnetka merchant.

TO CONTINUE 28-YEAR-OLD FIGHT FOR ARMY BACK PAY

Spanish-American War Veterans to Take Up Proposal at Convention Here Sunday.

A 28-year-old fight to obtain North travel pay for the Spanish-American War, at Manila to San Francisco for Spanish-American War soldiers who were discharged in the Philippines in 1899 will be renewed at the sixth annual reunion of L. Battery, Third United States Artillery, of the Spanish-American War, at Hotel Statler Sunday and Monday.

The bill providing for remuneration was passed by the last Congress, but was vetoed by President Coolidge.

Veterans from 16 states will attend the St. Louis reunion. All veterans of the Spanish-American War are invited.

184 APPLY FOR JOBS THROUGH THE POLICE

None Yet Placed as Free Service Has Just Been Started.

The police free employment service registered up to 2:30 p. m. today—the first day of the service—181 men and three women seeking work. Most of them were unskilled.

The names, addresses, qualifications and kind of work preferred were listed at the 14 police stations, and patrolmen were instructed to inquire at business and industrial establishments for employment opportunities. Up to 2:30, none of the applicants had been placed because the police employment service was just getting under way.

The Deer Street Station at Deer and Easton avenue registered the greatest number of applicants, 27. The Mounted District registered only one.

Chief Gerk announced yesterday the police would offer free employment service to citizens out of work and more than 16 years old. He believes the service will be of value to both the employer and the unemployed. When there is a surplus of jobs and applicants at one station, the overflow will be distributed among other districts.

MANAGER ARRANGES TO BUY MARQUETTE HOTEL AND SITE

Syndicate Headed by George T. Thompson Will Take Over Mortgage and Pay $200,000.

A syndicate headed by George T. Thompson, who for several months has managed the Marquette Hotel, today arranged to purchase the hotel and property site from its present owner, Sam Levitt, a real estate dealer. The buyer took over the mortgage of $1,550,000 and will pay in cash an amount approximated at $200,000.

Thompson, president of the newly organized George T. Thompson Realty Co., which is taking over the property, formerly was one of the managers of Hotel Chase.

The purchase of the hotel was arranged through the J. I. Epstein & Son Realty Co., 617 Chestnut street. J. I. Epstein acted for both parties.

The hotel site is a plot of ground extending 150 feet on Eighteenth street between Washington and St. Charles, and 115 feet on Washington and St. Charles. The building is eight stories high and contains 364 rooms.

FLOOD IN WASHINGTON KILLS 300 JAPANESE CHERRY TREES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—About 300 of the 467 double-blossom Japanese cherry trees on Haines Point have died as the result of high water during recent heavy rains. Single-blossom trees around Potomac basin, however, have not been affected.

For nearly a month the double-blossom trees have been standing in water 18 inches deep, efforts to drain the land having failed because the Potomac River was near flood level.

The Japanese Embassy has taken up with its home Government the question of replacing the dead trees but it is not thought that new trees will be available by blooming time next spring.

TWO-DAY ROTARY CONFERENCE

The annual club executives' conference of the Fourteenth District Rotary International opened a two-day session at Hotel Statler today. Thirty-one Missouri clubs are represented by about 75 organization presidents, secretaries and committee chairmen, who will lay plans for the district conference at Moberly next May, to be attended by 1000 Missouri Rotarians.

HIRAM JOHNSON RENOMINATED BY 5 TO 1 VOTE IN CALIFORNIA

Representative Mrs. Florence Kahn Virtually Re-Elected, Being Unopposed in Primary.

By the Associated Press. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 28.—The nomination of the veteran Senator, Hiram W. Johnson, conceded, interest in California's primary election centered today in contests in five congressional districts.

Senator Johnson, twice Governor of the State and now seeking his third term in the United States Senate, was far ahead of former Congressman Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles. Returns from 5074 of the State's 9082 precincts gave Johnson 225,801 votes and Randall 40,684.

Minor Moore, Los Angeles attorney, unopposed for the Democratic senatorial nomination, will oppose Johnson in the November election.

In the Eighth District, Representative Arthur Free, seeking re-election, had 7348 votes on the Republican ticket and 1579 on the Democratic. Mrs. Cecilia Casserly, daughter of the late Michael Cuddey of Chicago, also seeking both nominations, had 1872 Republican and 1775 Democratic votes.

Representative Florence F. Kahn, Republican, Fourth District, was unopposed and may be declared elected as the result of the primary returns.

Idaho Convention O. K. Smith. By the Associated Press. GRANGEVILLE, Idaho, Aug. 28.—Modification of the Volstead act to permit the sale of light wines and beer was advocated by George Donert, temporary chairman of the Democratic State convention here, in his keynote address yesterday. Donert, an attorney of 1821 Gravel avenue and was fired upon by a private watchman. One bullet struck a gasoline pump and set the station on fire. Vriaki stole and automobile to escape. Previously he and Bohannon had held up another filling station.

TWELVE SENT TO JAIL ON DRY LAW CHARGES

Two Women Among Defendants in East St. Louis Court—Fines Total $3000.

Twelve defendants, who pleaded guilty of violating the national prohibition act in the Federal court at East St. Louis yesterday, were sent to jail and fined a total of $3000 by Federal Judge Frel L. Wham.

James Ohlendorf, at whose plant in Belleville agents reported having found 1890 quarts of home brew and who was characterized by Assistant District Attorney Ralph Lesemann as "a wholesaler who was the chief source of supply for Belleville, Mascoutah and Freeburg saloons," was fined $600 and sent to jail for seven months.

He was trapped by a prohibition agent who ordered four cases of beer by telephone in the name of a Freeburg saloonkeeper at whose place agents were making a raid. William Upton explained to the court that 23 gallons of whisky and 150 quarts of home brew seized in his place at 322 Trembley avenue, East St. Louis, in violation of an injunction, was his own "drinking liquor." He was fined $100 and sentenced to seven months.

"I was running a regular business," Mrs. Henrietta Creek, a widow with two children, told the court, when asked to explain the presence of 71 quarts of home brew in her home at 321 North Fifth street, East St. Louis. She was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $150.

Agents stated they found 20 gallons of whisky buried in a cask at 1132 Bolsmenue avenue, East St. Louis, and a still in operation. Roy Logsdon and Leo Haden, who admitted they were the owners, were sentenced to seven months in jail and a $400 fine.

Walter Moore, a mechanic, who had set up two stills in order to make "better money," as he told the court, was sentenced to seven months and fined $200.

Others who were sentenced are: Louis Bub, New Baden, Ill., $200 and 90 days; Stanley Boher, East St. Louis, $100 and 90 days; Fred Hoffman, Belleville, $200 and four months; Henry Barnett, East St. Louis, $350 and four months; Mrs. Frank Frankell, Freeburg, Ill., $200 and 90 days; Jack Adkins, owner of the Avenue Club at 409 Collinsville avenue, East St. Louis, $300 and three months.

To permit Mrs. Livana Feldhake of Effingham to remain in her home, Judge Wham modified an injunction filed against it as result of the arrest of William Carty, a roomer, on a charge of making beer in the basement.

Judge Wham also modified an injunction against a building at 11 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, to permit the owner, Miss Mollie Canty, to rent the lower floor for a restaurant. The injunction was issued following the arrest of a tenant for violation of the dry act.

Democratic Elector Resigns.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 29.—Because he holds a view on prohibition different from that expressed by the Democratic presidential nominee, John R. Tally of Hattiesburg, opposed to modification of the prohibition laws, has resigned as a presidential elector from the State at large. The Democratic State Executive Committee appointed M. McFarlane, Laurel, to the vacancy.

LUNCH ROOM OWNER SHOT RESISTING SECOND HOLDUP

Woodrider Man Fails Robbery but Lost $30 First Time Three Weeks Ago.

Christ G. Halkies, 50-year-old proprietor of the Coney Island luncheon in Woodrider, Ill., can't keep from resisting holdup men who visit his place of business.

Today he is in St. Joseph's Hospital in Alton with a bullet wound in the ribs because he tried to snatch a three-gun who attempted to rob his lunch room last night. The men escaped in a waiting automobile, without taking any money.

Three weeks ago Halkies suffered a rash on the head when struck with the butt of a revolver by a robber who stole $30.

SANTA FE AUTHORIZED TO BUY ORIENT ROAD

I. C. C. Permits Purchase of Capital Stock Amounting to $14,507,500.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29. — Reorganization of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad Co. into the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railway Co., so that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. can acquire it, as authorized yesterday by the Interstate Commerce Commission, was approved today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Details of the reorganization plan call for the issuance of 35,000 shares of capital stock without nominal or par value by the new railway company to acquire the railroad and properties formerly owned by the Orient Railroad and the assumption of obligation and liability by the new concern of a note for $2,500,000 given by the receiver of the Orient to the Secretary of the Treasury.

The new company also is slated to acquire and operate the railroad lines of the Orient railroad and to acquire control of the company by purchase of its capital stock, amounting to $14,507,500. The road extends from Wichita, Kan., to Alpine, Tex., a distance of 285 miles.

Orient Line Built by Young Insurance Salesman.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 29. — Purchase of the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient by the Santa Fe ends a chapter of railroad history.

First visioned 35 years ago in a dream by Arthur E. Stilwell, a young insurance salesman who had come here from the East, the Orient road's construction began a few years later, financed by small investors living far from Wall Street. Stilwell was confronted by many financial obstacles, but financing was his forte.

In addition to organizing the railroad company, he established numerous subsidiaries such as construction companies and others. The construction company would build the line, taking in pay stocks and bonds of the road.

Wichita Eastern Terminal.

Instead of a continuous line, the road was built in patches. It never got farther east than Wichita, Kan., although it carried Kansas City in its name and built an expensive terminal here. The purchase by the Santa Fe gives it the first Kansas City connection.

Eventually a line that stretched 735 miles from Wichita to Alpine, Tex., was completed and three widely separated stretches, including one at Topolobampo, Western terminal on the Gulf to Lower California, were built, a total of 258 miles on that side of the border.

Stilwell interested English financiers who invested heavily in the road. At about the same time, when aid in the amount of $2,500,000 was forthcoming from President Diaz of Mexico, the revolution of 1910 halted the payments after Stilwell had received about half the amount.

Even with all the financial aid Stilwell mustered, the road never was adequately equipped and as late as 1924 paid $400,000 for rental of box cars and $250,000 freight on coal hauled for its engines.

The fact that the line was the only railroad serving more than a hundred communities in Western Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, caused the Government to keep it going with loans.

Thrown Into Receivership.

In 1912 it was thrown into receivership and in the reorganization that followed, Stilwell was left out entirely. The original stock was thrown in the waste basket when $8,000,000 in gold notes secured by the Orient's properties were issued. Former investors took some of the notes and new investors, including Henry Ford and Senator Couzens of Michigan, became interested. All went well until the road defaulted interest payments and its construction companies went into bankruptcy.

The road was refinanced in 1918 by a noteholders' deposit committee. English noteholders also formed a committee, but the two never worked in harmony.

Difficulties continued in 1917 and then William T. Kemper was named receiver and authorized to issue $2,500,000 in receivers' certificates to rehabilitate the line.

The Kemper receivership was a stormy period, including the years of Government operations. On two occasions the road was on the point of being sold for junk, but Kemper and a few others put their own money into the line, obtained Government loans and effected economies that made continued operation possible.

BLAINE OF WISCONSIN DECLARES FOR SMITH

La Follette Republican Senator Urges Voters to Rebuke G. O. P. Corruption.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BURLINGTON, Wis., Aug. 29.—United States Senator John J. Blaine's long-awaited pronouncement on Gov. Smith came yesterday in the course of a speech delivered here. Blaine is a LaFollette Republican.

"I have no doubt that my friends and supporters are going to vote for Gov. Smith for President," he said. "There are times when partisanship must not blind us. We must condemn Republican silence on the scandals of the Harding administration as an accessory after the fact."

The statement brought applause from the big crowd. Blaine came to Burlington ostensibly to support LaFollette, Progressive candidate for Senator, but devoted most of his speech to a bitter attack on the Harding and Coolidge administrations and on former Secretary of the Interior Fall who leased Teapot Dome and Elk Hills to Harry Sinclair and E. L. Doheny.

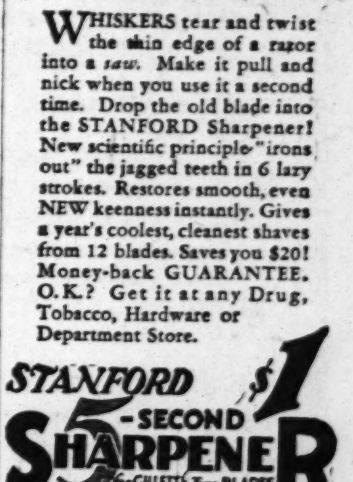

"The thing to do," said he, "is to rebuke this corruption by voting for Gov. Smith."

Those who have attended a Vandervoort Month-End Sale will welcome this announcement of another such value-giving event; for every item included in the Month-End Sale is priced lower than it has ever before been offered.

The Month-End Sale is a storewide offering of odd lots and fragments of stocks in which the size ranges and assortments are now incomplete and are therefore priced so low as to effect complete clearance.

Because of the limited quantities, you can readily appreciate the advantages of early selection.

WILL PLEAD INSANITY

Ex-Convict Says He Was Jealous—Implicates Another Man in Killings.

By the Associated Press.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 29.—Percy Barnes, former convict and confessed slayer of two of four men who died of bullet wounds as the result of a series of shootings here Monday night, declared today he shot the men because of insane jealousy over his wife. He indicated his plea would be insanity.

L. R. Coburn, whom Barnes has accused by killing the other two and wounding a fifth, is held by police, but police are skeptical of his guilt. They suspect Barnes holds a grudge against Coburn and implicated him for revenge.

The slain were Clarence Muncy, said to have received the attention of Barnes' divorced wife; Charles E. Curtis and Charles Klein, brother-in-law of Barnes, and Leonard E. Gearhart, Barnes' cousin by marriage. M. H. Larkin, motorist, was wounded when he offered to help Klein to a hospital.

Barnes was in Folsom prison in 1924 and was wounded in an attempted prison break when four convicts were killed, police said.

Wife Sues Over Living in Attic. In her petition filed in the City Court of East St. Louis yesterday, Mrs. Hazel Eaves asks for separate maintenance from her husband, Edward, because of cruelty, alleging that after their marriage, Feb. 19, 1926, he forced her to live in a two-room attic above the home of his parents at 630 North Twenty-fifth street, East St. Louis. They separated Aug. 18.

COOLIDGE CALLS MORE PARTY LEADERS

Warren, Brown and Meyer to Visit Brule This Week to Report on Situation.

By the Associated Press.

SUPERIOR, Wis., Aug. 29.—Charles Beecher Warren, former Ambassador to Mexico, will arrive tomorrow for an overnight stay at the summer White House. He will be succeeded Friday by Walter Brown of Ohio, Assistant Secretary of Commerce and Saturday by Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Farm Loan Board.

While no official explanations were given at the executive offices as to the reasons which prompted Mr. Coolidge's invitations to his guests, it was understood the chief executive is undertaking a close study of the political situation in the Middle West and Northwest.

Warren, who will come here from Detroit, will be able to furnish Mr. Coolidge with a picture of the situation in Michigan, while Brown, who was active in Herbert Hoover's pre-convention campaign, will be in a position to explain developments in Ohio.

Coolidge already has conferred with former Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin regarding the outlook in this State, while Senator Capper of Kansas, in the course of a call yesterday, discussed politics in his own and adjacent States. Secretary West of the Interior Department, who left Superior yesterday, brought the chief executive information on the Illinois situation.

It was understood further Mr. Coolidge had extended invitations to other political experts to visit him at Cedar Island Lodge, that he might return to Washington with a thorough knowledge of the trend of opinion in the West.

Meyer will pass through Superior on his annual swing West in connection with his regular duties of office, and Mr. Coolidge took the opportunity to invite him to call.

Until last night on the Brule River, President Coolidge achieved his greatest fishing ambition of the summer, by catching one of the Montana graylings which had been let out into the stream purposely to see if his angling skill were up to the level of hooking what are commonly considered the hardest fish to bait.

With two secret service agents and George Balbo, veteran instructor, as his dry fly fishing guide, Mr. Coolidge fulfilled his most earnest angling wish two days before the fishing season on the open river closes. The grayling caught was about 11 inches long. The graylings have tender mouths and are very game when actually hooked.

Mr. Coolidge gave instructions to prepare the grayling for his breakfast today.

SOUTH CAROLINA DEMOCRATS EXCLUDE SOME FROM PRIMARY

Those Refusing Allegiance to National Ticket Barred; All Congressmen Renominated.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 29.—All of South Carolina's Congressmen were renominated in yesterday's Democratic primary in which a number of persons were barred from voting because they refused to subscribe to the rule requiring allegiance to the national ticket in order to cast a primary ballot.

The rule which requires primary voters to pledge allegiance to the national nominees of the party caused dozens of persons in different parts of the State to be denied the ballot. In Saluda County 20 persons, mostly women, requested either that they be allowed to vote under a relaxed rule or be allowed to vote as a basis for a court test of the party rule. These requests were denied by election managers. Similar refusals occurred in Sumter and Greenville Counties.

One refusal was reported in Columbia, though the chief flurry in the capital came when it was discovered that election managers were administering an oath containing a clause that had been stricken out by the State convention of 1928.

NATURAL GAS FOR MEMPHIS

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Announcement of the formation of the Memphis Natural Gas Co. disclosed plans for building a $10,000,000 pipe line to transport natural gas from the Monroe (La.) fields to Memphis and intervening territory in Mississippi and Arkansas. The project provides for construction of a 218-mile pipe line with daily rate transportation capacity of 60,000,000 cubic feet, two compressor stations and other facilities and equipment necessary to serve a population of 300,000.

The new company, which will purchase and resell natural gas wholesale, has arranged a long-term contract for supply from the Industrial Gas Co., subsidiary of the Electric Power and Light Corporation, and has contracts to sell to the Memphis Power & Light Co., Mississippi Power & Light Co., and Arkansas Power & Light Co.

ESCAPES FROM SANITARIUM

A woman patient at the City Sanitarium, 5309 Arsenal street, eluded her nurse early today and disappeared from her room. In the belief the patient had gone to the roof of the 6-story building, Engine Co. No. 35 was summoned and 10 firemen searched the roof for an hour without finding her.

After the firemen departed, the woman was found at a house in the neighborhood to which she had gone after walking down the stairs at the Sanitarium.

COMMERCE CHAMBER MEDALS

Two silver medals, one from the Chamber of Commerce of Paris and the other from the crew of the German trans-Atlantic plane, Bremen, were presented to the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

The medal from Paris, bearing the words "Chamber de Commerce de Paris" and the insignia of commerce and industry, was given through the United States Chamber of Commerce in appreciation of the courtesies extended the French Air Mission during its recent visit here. The other medal, similar to the one given Mayor Miller recently, bears the names Baron Ehrenfried Gunther von Huenefeld, Capt. Herman Koel and James E. Fitzmaurice under a picture of the Bremen.

Death Plunger Lands in Crowd.

VIENNA, Aug. 29.—Stanislaus Silberman, a Viennese bank director, was killed by jumping or falling from the fourth floor of the Hotel Imperial on Ringstrasse yesterday. His body landed amidst a number of guests seated in front of the building, breaking an arm of one of them.

MEXICAN CATHOLICS' DEMANDS PUBLISHED

Constitutional Amendments to Be Sought to End Church-State Controversy.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1928, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (the New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 29.—

Through the courtesy of the Catholic lay committee of Mexico, the text of the memorial demanding amendments to the Constitution, which the committee will present to the new Congress next month has been made public. Five amendments are asked for to end the Church-State controversy and to make the State and Church independent and free of one another. The memorial demands that various articles of the Constitution should be amended as follows:

Article 3—Education shall be free. That which is imparted in the public schools shall be subject to conditions fixed by laws which will prohibit them from attacking religion. In the primary schools teaching shall be free. In private schools the religion judged desirable by the parents of the children shall be freely taught. Religious instruction in public schools shall not be obligatory but shall be obtainable in case the parents request it.

Article 5—The State shall never allow any pact to be put in effect which will infringe the laws of liberty.

Article 24—Every man shall be free to profess the religious creed he prefers and practice its ceremonies, devotions or other acts of worship except in cases where an attack is made upon morality.

Article 27—Any charitable institution shall be allowed to acquire property and administer capital.

Article 130—The State and the various religious creeds shall be independent of each other. The State shall recognize the juridical personality of all of them. The State shall not legislate in matters spiritual nor shall it intervene in the administration of religious worship. The Church in turn shall not meddle in civil matters. Only those married civilly shall obtain the guarantee and benefits of the laws. All churches, bishops' houses, schools, seminaries, houses of curates, asylums, hospitals and other buildings of religious associations taken over by the Government since January, 1914, shall be returned to the respective associations to which they belonged.

MISS HERTLE OF NEW YORK WINS TEN-MILE SWIM

By The Associated Press.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Americans captured the five money-winning places in the Wrigley 10-mile swim for women today, first and second prizes going to mermaids from opposite sides of the continent.

First Place Worth $10,000.

Ethel Hertle, 20-year-old New York swimmer, won first prize of $10,000 and Olive Gatterdam, 16-year-old youngster from Seattle, Wash., who was about three minutes behind her, gained second prize of $2000.

The next three places were won by Ruth Tower, Denver, Colo.; Jane Thoms, Terre Haute, Ind., and Anna Beloit, Westfield, Mass., who were from 25 to 40 minutes behind the winner.

Turtle an Also-Ran.

Failure of Miss Gertrude Ederle, the first woman to swim the English Channel, to finish within the money provided the sensation of the race as the New York girl had been favored jointly with Miss Hertle. Trudy, who finished sixth, was in a prize position until the final lap of 2 1/2 miles when she gradually fell behind and became the first of the "also rans."

The first five finishers, with the prizes won and the official times: First, Ethel Hertle, New York, $10,000. Time, 5 hours 24 minutes 36 seconds.

Second, Olive Gatterdam, Seattle, Wash., $2000. Time, 5:44:40.

Third, Ruth Tower, Denver, Colo., $1000. Time, 6:10:00.

Fourth, Jane Thoms, Terre Haute, Ind., $600. Time, 6:12:45.

Fifth, Anna Beloit, Westfield, Mass., $400. Time, 6:17:40.

ORIOLES FORFEIT GAME WHEN DUNN DIRECTS TEAM FROM STANDS

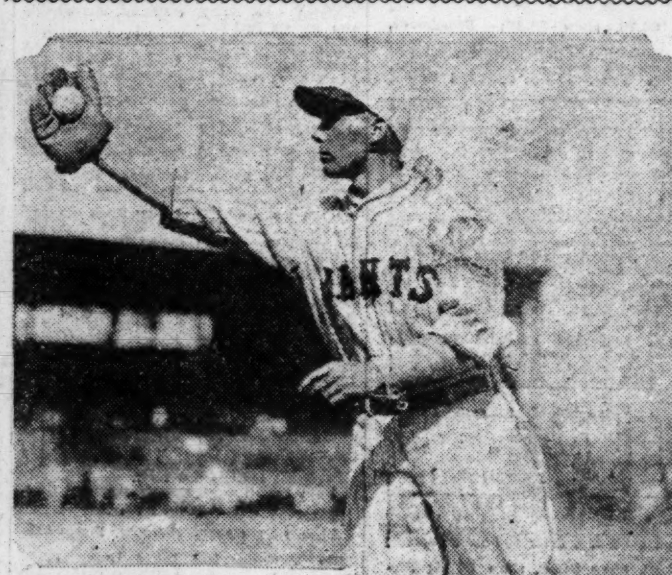

By The Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Aug. 29.—The first forfeit of the International League season was declared in favor of Buffalo in the seventh inning of the first game against Baltimore here today when Jack Dunn, suspended manager of the Orioles, was discovered in the park directing his team from the grandstand. The Orioles were leading by 2 to 0 in the first half of the seventh when Dunn was discovered.

The umpires acted upon a precedent set by John Conway Toole, International League president, some weeks ago, when, in ruling on a Baltimore protest against Buffalo, he said the "umpires would have been within their rights in declaring a forfeit."

Toole had reference to the discovery of William J. Clymer, Buffalo manager, in the stands at Baltimore while Clymer was under suspension. The league head held that, since the umpires had not forfeited the game, won by Buffalo, it must be replayed. Baltimore won the replay.

Recovering From Operation; Will Be Able to Play Again

ED ROUSH, Giants' outfielder, who will be at St. John's Hospital for three more weeks and will be out of the game for the season. Dr. Robert Hyland thinks Roush will be O K next year.

JOIE RAY SAYS HE INTENDS TO JOIN PRO RANKS

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Joie Ray has decided definitely to turn professional, the veteran Chicago runner today told Harold J. Dibblee at a conference with Madison Square Garden officials. His plans are indefinite, but embrace the possibility of a return race with his Olympic Marathon conqueror, El Ouali, the French Arab.

Expected to Coach.

Dibblee said that he arranged a conference with Ray, an old friend, to "sound out" the runner on the subject of turning professional.

The Garden official said Ray not only was willing to race the Arab, but intended to secure a position as coach for some school or college as soon as possible.

Ray has been running as an amateur for almost 18 years. Several years ago he turned in his amateur card with a similar declaration that he intended to turn professional but he never did so.

After a period of suspension, "Chester Joie" forsook the mile distance, at which he was national champion for several years, and attempted to end his amateur days in a blaze of marathon triumphs.

Defeated in Olympics.

After finishing third in the Boston marathon, Ray won the Long Beach grind, setting a new record for the course. Despite a gallant attempt, he was beaten in the Olympic test by the Arab when cramps seized him after he had led the field a good part of the 26-odd miles.

Ray, one of the most colorful runners America ever has produced, has been reported in financial straits for some time. Madison Square Garden officials are endeavoring to bring El Ouali to America, along with several other foreign amateur stars, for a series of match races.

May Sign Next Week.

Dibblee said that he would meet Ray again tomorrow but that no attempt would be made to sign the little fellow with the loping stride and unfailing endurance until next week, when more definite news will be at hand as to the intentions of other runners, the Garden seeks. Dibblee is certain, however, that regardless of the outcome of his talks with Joie, the former Chicago taxi driver will relinquish his amateur standing within a few days.

FARRELL 1 UP ON HAGEN AFTER FIRST 18 HOLES

By The Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 29.—Johnny Farrell, American open champion, was one up on Walter Hagen at the end of the first 18 holes in the first 36-hole match here today of their series to determine the unofficial world's golf championship.

Starting the second nine down, Farrell squared the match with the British open champion on the fifteenth, when he took a birdie to Hagen's par five. Farrell went into the lead on the next hole with a birdie three, while Hagen took a par four. Farrell came in in 24, two under par for the nine, while the Haig had a par 26.

AUSTRALIANS IN SEMIFINALS OF NET TOURNEY

By The Associated Press.

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29.—Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes, the Australian Davis cup players, today entered the semifinal round in the national tennis championship tournament by defeating Arnold W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham of Providence, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, in a third-round match on the courts of the Longwood Cricket Club.

The American players gave the Aussies rugged opposition in the first two sets, but were unable to handle the dazzling shots which Patterson and Hawkes fired in the match set.

French Team Wins.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon, the top seeded Frenchmen, eliminated the second American pair when they defeated R. N. Williams, II, and Watson Washburn in a four set match, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Though Williams and Washburn were able to win a set against the French players, the only one the visitors have lost so far, they were too erratic during the vital periods of the match and were never threatening.

Gerald Patterson and Jack Hawkes defeated Arnold W. Jones and W. W. Ingraham, 6-4, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon defeated R. N. Williams, II, and Watson Washburn, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

SCORES 296 OUT OF 300 TO WIN JUNIOR RIFLE CHAMPIONSHIP

By The Associated Press.

CAMP DENVER, O., Aug. 29.—Lawrence Wilkins, Norwood, O., won the group A prone match, the first event of the National Rifle Association junior matches here, it was announced today.

Rain yesterday delayed the shooting until late in the afternoon. Announcement of results was delayed until today.

Wilkins scored a 296 out of a possible 300, to lead the field. James Hurt of Indianapolis took second with a 294, while David McDougal of Washington, D. C., last year's individual junior champion trailed in third place with a 292. McDougal was junior winner at Seagirt, N. J., this year.

Mary Ward, Chicago, took fourth place in the junior competition with a 276, while Annie Laurie Wells, San Antonio, Tex., finished fifth with 265.

Shooting in group "B," Bradford Wiles, Chicago, placed first with 294. Others placing in order were: James Dutcher, Highland Park, Ill.; Alfred Stuart, Wilmington, Del.; 278; Robert Bolte, Grayton, O., 278.

Group A includes ages 16 to 19; group B 12 to 15.

BILLY MALONEY AFTER OPPONENT FOR KAISER ON CARD OF SEPT. 18

Peewee Kaiser, who gave the fans a few thrills in knocking out Pat Flanagan on Billy Maloney's first fight card early this month at the Missouri Horseshoe Arena, will appear in the main event on Maloney's second program, Sept. 18, at the same place.

Matchmaker Maloney sent telegrams today to Johnny Heintzel, former St. Louis boy; Kid Wolfe of Chicago and Jimmy Dale of DeCatur, and it is believed likely that one of the three will be signed as Kaiser's opponent. Of the three, Heintzel has the best record, having won 26 bouts in a row while on a ring campaign in the East. He lost to Milton Manguna Monday night in Little Rock.

FINAL CONTEST OF SEASON WITH CUBS CANCELLED

By L. A. McMaster, Of the Post-Dispatch Staff.

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—A heavy downpour of rain here this afternoon caused cancellation of the third game of the Cardinals' series with the Cubs.

Four men had batted for St. Louis and there were runners on second and third when the storm became so heavy that all the players and umpires had to run for cover.

The park employees were able to get only half of the infield covered before the tarpaulins became so heavy from the water that they had to give up the effort.

McKeeble and his athletes were disappointed over not being able to play the game, which will have to go unplayed, as it was the last contest scheduled between the teams this year. The Cardinals won 1 of the 21 games played and had just handed the Chicago team two bad beatings here. They had figured on making a clean sweep of the series.

About 3000 fans in the stands yelled "play ball" until they were hoarse while the umpires took an occasional look at the heavy clouds and an occasional plough about the field.

Water in the dugouts stood on a level with the "grinders."

Though forced into idleness, the Cardinals benefitted on the day due to the Braves' victory over the Giants. The Giants dropped to third place by a fraction of a point and the Cubs floated into second place by the same fraction.

The Cubs are now five and a half games back of the Cards and the Giants and Reds six.

Joe Haines had warmed up for McKeeble's men this afternoon and the big right hander and Grover Alexander both are ready now for the opener tomorrow in Pittsburgh.

HELDELITE CAPTURES RUNNING BROOK STEEPLECHASE AT SARATOGA

CASE GELDING BEATS MINATA EASILY TO WIN SELLING RACE

The Giant Killer.
AT this writing it appears that if a successor to Jack Dempsey is not discovered, Mickey Walker is very likely to prove a fair substitute.
Walker has just finished a job that the champion of all the light heavyweights, Tommy Loughran, was unable to complete.
He knocked out Armand Emanuel. Previously Emanuel had made a very good showing against Loughran in 10 rounds. The two fights indicated that the middleweight champion was a better man than the light heavyweight king.

Emanuel is not the only victim of the former welterweight champion. That "son of the owl" Mike McTigue, was pushed over in a round by Walker.
Mickey also strewed the middleweight champion of England, Tommy Loughran, all over the canvas, in London. So that it seems fairly well established that the Mighty Molecule can sock just like Jack Dempsey.

Mickey Is Fearless.
L ICKE Dempsey, too, Walker is afraid of nothing. Never mind the weight or the size, bring him on, says Mickey. They're easier to hit. And they all fall if you hit 'em.

Again, like Dempsey, he is being brought out by Jack Kearns, who popularly is believed to have agate eyes and a calcarous deposit where his heart ought to be. Be that as it may, he is the same man who brought Dempsey out of obscurity and helped make him rich, though unpopular.
Mickey is popular in spite of Kearns and not yet so rich that he can float a loan to Czechoslovakia.

Fans are ready to take up with Mickey. It is up to him to make good from now on, and prove that his present rise is not merely due to a succession of friendly referees and worn out or novice opponents.

It Is to Laugh.
M ICKEY is now being puffed up for a match with Tommy Loughran. Tommy is quite a boxer. He doesn't like to be muscled himself and he doesn't like to muscled the other fellow too much, until it becomes absolutely necessary. For that reason, many persons have the idea that Loughran is a bit fromagenous as a title holder.

They will argue that Emanuel lasted 10 rounds with Tommy. Meaning that Mickey therefore figures better than Tommy. But when these men meet, an investment in Loughran's chances will yield dividends.
Walker cannot concede him 15 pounds and win.

Loughran is no withered, ancient McTigue or no puffed-up novice like Emanuel. If the Pacific Coast man fingered around with Loughran, it was because Tommy saw no use in blasting budding hopes the first time they opened.

Tommy believes in live and let live.

Railroad Club Holds Ring Show
Nine interesting bouts, two of which terminated in knockouts, composed the introductory program of the newly organized Missouri Pacific Athletic Club, at the club's quarters, 3001 Chouteau avenue, last night. About 600 persons attended.

Among the winners were Stanley Ridgion, Norman Hoke, "Pawnee" Terry, Frank Parks and Earl Thompson.

Al Nelson officiated as referee, making his first appearance as a licensed official.

The results:
Frank Parks, Missouri Pacific A. C., defeated Earl Terry, Technical Boxers, second round, which was a technical decision.

Joe Thompson, Tower A. C., defeated Don Smith, Tower A. C., second round, which was a technical decision.

William Williams, Tower A. C., defeated Woodrow Williams, Tower A. C., second round, which was a technical decision.

CONGRESSMAN RUBEY DRAWS FROM RACE

Health District Representative Pleads Ill Health—Organize in State.

Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, City, Aug. 29.—
L. R. R. of Lebanon, Missouri Congressman from the district, withdrew yesterday candidate for re-election in the state legislature.
He gave ill health as the reason for withdrawal.
Rube was first elected to Congress in 1912 and has served continuously since that time, except one term. He was nominated for the committee to meet at Roland, to name another candidate.

WOMAN ARRESTED ON KIDNAPING CHARGES

Associated Press.
ST. LOUIS, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Democracy today arrested James Barnham, 40, and Miss Leona
Cohen, 12, both of Knoxville, Tenn. at a hotel here, on charges of kidnaping a girl. They failed to deny the charge.
The woman was occupying separate rooms.

G. O. P. CONDEMNED BY MISSOURI FARMERS

Association Praises Democrats
for "Unequivocal Pledge" for Relief.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
SEDALLA, Mo., Aug. 29.—The Republican party was condemned for the "contempt" with which it treated farm leaders at the Kansas City convention and the "glittering generalities" in its platform, while the Democrats were praised for the "cordial welcome" extended at Houston and for the "unequivocal pledge" given there to enact effective legislation for agricultural relief, in resolutions adopted today
by the Missouri Farmers' Association in closing its convention here.
The association opposed the proposed $75,000,000 bond issue for improved roads.
The resolutions declared that while the farmers of the State are free to vote for whom they choose in the national election, "our members have a right to look to their leaders for an expression."
"The whole country knows that the farm leaders were treated with contempt at the recent Republican National Convention in Kansas City," said the resolution,
"and that Gov. Lowden, an able and fearless friend of agriculture,
was hopelessly beaten in that convention, and furthermore everybody knows that the Republican platform promises for farm relief

are a lot of glittering generalities, whose only purpose is to alleviate the farmers' wrath through the use of soft words. For eight long years, the Republican party has been in power. During this time agriculture has passed through a tragedy without precedent in our national history, and yet while in this time President Coolidge has adopted gives an unequivocal pledge that if the Democratic party is intrusted with power, it will enact legislation that will make the tariff effective for agriculture, and will assess the loss sustained in marketing surplus farm commodities against those who receive the benefit, and those pledges constitute the very heart of the McNary-Haugen bill.

William Hirth of Columbia was elected president of the association.
J. Wiley Atkins, Lebanon, Mo., was chosen as vice president.
Without mentioning the name of Gov. Smith, Hirth made a plea for support of the Democratic nominees

in an address yesterday.
With reference to the proposed consolidation of other farm organizations with the Missouri Farmers' Association, Hirth declared that he did not oppose a merger
but that if they did merge they must join in the buying and selling power of the association as it is

and the name of the Missouri Farmers' Association must be retained.
Intervention of police to restore order in the convention became necessary yesterday during a demonstration which amounted to an indorsement of Hirth and his politics.

BOY AVIATOR, 14, IS REFUSED GOVERNMENT FLYING LICENSE

New Own Plane, Alone, From Massachusetts to Washington to Seek Document.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 29.—Joe Garalde, 14-year-old Massachusetts boy, flew alone to Washington last Sunday seeking to become the youngest licensed aviator in the United States, but his plea was denied because of his youth. Joe flies a Waco-10 plane purchased for him some time ago by his mother, and he says that, license or no license, he will fly the plane to his home at Milton, Mass., when his vacation ends, about Sept. 10.

His chief ambition, he admits, is to do an outside loop. Only three aviators in America are credited with this stunt.

Young Garalde is the holder of the fourth prize in a model contest sponsored by the National Aeronautic Association. He has a $50 check signed by Orville Wright, a gold medal and two $20 gold pieces among his trophies.

OFFICIAL VOTE ON MISSOURI PRIMARIES

Figures on Republican Senatorship Held Up Because of Possible Contest.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 29.—The official vote for candidates for major offices in the Missouri primary election Aug. 7, announced yesterday by Secretary of State Becker, showed no change in the unofficial results as compiled by the Associated Press.

The secretary withheld announcement of the official vote in the contest for the Republican nomination for United States Senator, in which there is likelihood of a contest. Served with a notice that a contest would be filed, Baker has asked Attorney-General Stratton Shertel for an opinion on announcement of the official vote.

The unofficial count showed Roscoe C. Patterson of Springfield had been nominated but David M. Proctor of Kansas City ruled charges of irregularities in Jackson County. Proctor said votes had been stolen from Nathan Frank of St. Louis, the runner-up in unofficial returns, and that Frank really had been nominated.

The official vote as announced in the other contests:

There were no contests in the Republican races for Attorney General, State Auditor and Lieutenant Governor.

REED'S ADDRESS TO CATHOLICS HERE TO BE NON-POLITICAL

Secretary of National Conference of Charities Says Senator Was Invited Last January.

The address which Senator Reed will deliver at the meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Charities here, Sept. 16, will be non-political, the Rev. John O'Grady, executive secretary of the conference said yesterday.

Commenting on an announcement by Senator Rydings of Maryland in which Reed's address was listed as being among speaking engagements for the Democratic Presidential campaign, Father O'Grady said: "The National Conference of Catholic Charities, at its meeting on Jan. 9, last, voted to invite Senator Reed to address the National Conference. At that time it was not known whether Gov. Smith would even be a candidate for the presidential nomination. Senator Reed was invited to address the conference only because he is senior Senator from Missouri and not because of his political persuasion."

Money Bag Pinned to Shirt; In Addition New Yorker Had $587 in Bank.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—When Peter Reilly was brought into Bellevue Hospital yesterday attendants thought it hardly worth while to search him, his scanty clothing was so tattered.

But hospital routine prevailed and an orderly took off Reilly's shirt. Pinned to the shirt was a paper bag containing $3419 in bills and two bankbooks, one showing a credit of $540, the other of $47.

Reilly, who was suffering from a heart attack, said he had no home. He was found in Greenwich Village.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO JOIN LEAGUE ON ARMS CONTROL

Litvinoff, Declining to Operate, Says General Body Has Proposed Real Solution.

CHARGES PROGRAM MISLEADS PUBLIC

U. S. and Canada Insist Complete Publicity Governmental and Private Arms Production.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Aug. 29.—Russia refused to collaborate with the efforts of the League of Nations to obtain control of the manufacture of arms.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, telegraphing this decision to Eric Drummond, secretary of the League, pointed out his Government's contention that the League has done nothing toward solution of the problem of real disarmament.

He insisted that urgent results should be taken to obtain definite results and avoid the risk of future wars. An attempt to supervise the production of armaments is considered merely a mislead public opinion by holding false hopes of real disarmament.

Continued difficulties in the text of a convention for control of the private manufacture of arms prompted Count Bernstorff of Germany, president of the commission, to voice his doubts today to the wisdom of convoking an international conference. It will be up to the Council of the League of Nations, however, to decide whether the time is ripe for calling a meeting.

Hugh Wilson, American Minister to Switzerland and American representative on the commission, issued a new provision today which calls for publication of detailed information concerning warships, including all their armaments, and provision was made for approval by some delegates, especially Japanese, advocated striking publicity for the details of war armaments.

Meanwhile, the United States and Canada are co-operating in a kind of publicity concerning manufacture of armaments. Their representatives, Wilson, and Dr. Riddell, representative of Canada, voiced disapproval of a draft project reported to the commission which is trying to frame a convention for the control and manufacture of arms on the ground that it did not go far enough.

What They Demand.

Riddell and Wilson favored the same publicity to be manufactured in private factories. Dr. Riddell contended that depending largely on private manufacture should not be expected to furnish statistics, if countries depending on governmental manufacture were permitted to hold such figures.

The draft provision will be sent to the League Council which will publish the text of the agreement described here as an effort to achieve something possible by guarding the underlying idea of the Washington Naval Conference, the limitation of powerful and the construction of large fighting machines.

Essence of Accord.

The British declare the agreement was placed before the naval Powers in the hope that it would be accepted as a basis for discussion by the league's preparatory disarmament commission. The date of the commission's meeting depends on the results of these negotiations.

The essence of the accord, French opinion, is that an attempt should be made to reach an international agreement limiting construction of large cruisers and large submarines, but that limitation of smaller units should be sought for the present.

This suggestion is regarded as difficult for the United States to accept, as the American Government has sought an agreement limiting total tonnage of cruisers.

RUSSIA REFUSES TO JOIN LEAGUE ON ARMS CONTROL

Litvinoff, Declining to Co-Operate, Says Geneva Body Has Proposed No Real Solution.

U.S. and Canada Insist on Complete Publicity of Governmental and Private Arms Production.

By the Associated Press.
GENEVA, Aug. 29.—Russia has refused to collaborate with present efforts of the League of Nations to obtain control of the manufacture of arms.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Vice Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, in replying to this decision to Sir Eric Drummond, secretary of the League, pointed out his Government's contention that the League has done nothing toward solution of the problem of real disarmament.

He insisted that urgent steps should be taken to obtain definite results and avoid the risk of future wars. An attempt to supervise the production of armaments is considered merely as misleading public opinion by holding forth false hopes of real disarmament, he asserted.

Bernstorff's Attitude.
Continued difficulties in framing the text of a convention for the control of the private manufacture of arms prompted Count von Bernstorff of Germany, president of the commission engaged in this work to voice his doubts today as to the wisdom of convoking an international conference. It will be up to the Council of the League of Nations, however, to decide whether the time is ripe for calling such a meeting.

High Union, American Minister to Switzerland and American representative on the commission, introduced a new provision today which calls for publication of detailed information concerning warships, including all their armaments. The provision was largely approved, but some delegates, especially the Japanese, advocated striking out the details of warship armaments.

Meanwhile, the United States and Canada are co-operating in an effort to bring about the widest kind of publicity concerning manufacture of armaments. Their representatives, Wilson, and Dr. W. A. Riddell, representative of Canada, reported disapproval of a draft proposal to try to frame a convention for the control and manufacture of arms, on the ground that it did not go far enough.

What They Demand.
Riddell and Wilson favored giving the same publicity to arms made by private factories, as arms made in government arsenals. Riddell contended countries depending largely on private manufacture should not be expected to furnish statistics, if countries depending on governmental manufacture were permitted to withhold such figures.

The draft provision with reservations attached will be sent to the League Council which with the League Assembly will be empowered to decide whether, taking into account the differences of opinion in regard to the project, it would be wise to convene an international conference for its discussion.

In French circles it is categorically denied that the provisional limitation agreement between France and Great Britain contains any secret clauses. Both British and French spokesmen deny reports that the agreement provides for associated French and British fleets.

Replies from the United States, Italy and Japan are awaited before the text of the agreement, described here as an effort to achieve something possible and practicable by continuing what is regarded the underlying idea of the Washington Naval Conference, of limitation of powerful and of offensive naval fighting machines.

Essence of Accord.
The British declare the agreement was placed before the other naval Powers in the hope that it would be accepted as a basis for discussion by the league's preparatory disarmament commission. The text of the commission's next meeting depends on the result of these negotiations.

The essence of the accord, in French opinion, is that an attempt would be made to reach an international agreement limiting construction of large cruisers and large submarines, but that limitation of smaller units should not be sought for the present.

CITY CUTS WATER EXPENSE $146,304—REVENUE MOUNTS

Municipal Utility Report Cites Operating Costs $1,861,044, Income $3,523,715 and Balance on Hand, $2,546,674.

In the annual report of Water Commissioner Day for the fiscal year ended last April, published yesterday, it is shown that this profitable municipal utility had an increase of $75,920 in revenue over the previous year and a decrease of $146,304 in net operating expenses.

Expenses were $1,861,044 and net revenue $3,523,715. The difference, which might appear to be clear profit, is $1,662,671, but $860,000 was required during the year for the interest and sinking fund—the waterworks retires its own bond issues—and about $500,000 capital expenditure for laying new mains and replacing old ones, so that the actual net profit for the year is figured at $358,507, after deductions for interest and sinking fund and depreciation are required of privately owned utilities.

The department was left at the end of the fiscal year with a balance of $2,546,674 in its revenue accounts, but in view of the magnitude of the business, Commissioner Day regards this as none too much. When the new Missouri River pumping plant is put in service, the report forecasts this will be next February—operating expenses will be increased about $300,000 a year.

Distribution of Receipts.
This is the way every dollar of receipts is divided: Producing and purifying water, 37 cents; distribution, 8 cents; meters and inspection, 3 cents; assessment, billing and collection, 5 1/2 cents; commissioner's office, 1/4 cent; municipal railway, 1 cent; undistributed expense, 2 1/2 cents; depreciation allowance, 9 cents; interest and sinking fund, 43 cents; surplus, 2 1/2 cents.

It costs $71.81 for the city to produce 1,000,000 gallons of water, or 5.99 cents per 100 cubic feet, the report shows, or $51.45 per 1,000,000 gallons and 3.86 cents per 100 cubic feet before allowing for depreciation and sinking fund.

Average daily consumption of water during the fiscal year was 115.3 million gallons, as compared with 119.5 million gallons the previous year. The average amount used for every man, woman and child in the city was 139 gallons a day, compared with 146 gallons the previous year. Industrial use accounts for the large figures, since of course nobody drinks that much water to drink or bathe. 42,280,521,000 Gallons Consumed. Generally the day of biggest consumption comes in some sweltering summer period, but in the period covered by this report the big day was Jan. 4, 1928, a very cold one, when 151.3 million gallons were drawn. Unless the demand being due to opening taps to prevent pipes from freezing. The smallest day was May 15, 1927—89.4 million gallons. Total consumption for the year was 42,280,521,000 gallons.

There is a direct connection between the prevalence of typhoid. In 1900 St. Louis had 1213 cases of that disease and 163 deaths. The figures have decreased steadily and in 1927 there were 121 cases and 17 deaths, fewer than ever before. The modern system of clarifying water here dates from 1904, and of filtration from 1915.

$250,000 for New Intake.
Because of much trouble with ice and sand accumulating in the tunnels of the two intake towers midstream in the Mississippi River of the Chain of Rocks plant, in winter, Commissioner Day reported that $250,000 has been appropriated from revenue to build an improved intake at the shore line, somewhat like that to be used at the Missouri River plant. This is expected to be completed this year. Heretofore, workmen have had to stay in close quarters in the towers during bitter weather, to keep the lines of supply open.

Receipts from the Municipal Railway, an electric line operating from Baden to Chain of Rocks, installed when transportation to the pumping plant was needed, were $11,813 during the year and expenses were $38,316. The line must be kept up for switching and other service, but the demand for it by passengers has fallen off, although a residence and amusement section has sprung up at Chain of Rocks. The answer is the same as on many other electric railways—bus competition—the commissioner.

By adding mechanical equipment, the department now lays more pipe for water distribution for less money than formerly. Last year it put down 24.45 miles of pipe for $686,800, while the year before it installed 17.66 miles for $720,556.

Reiterating his determination to avoid speaking out of doors as much as possible on his swing around the country, Smith told newspapermen the only reason he broke this rule Monday night at Newark was because a large crowd had waited several hours to see and cheer him.

"It's disappointing to crowds to have them waiting around for so several hours," he says, "and then to tell them only how much you think of them. They don't fail for that sort of talk. There is nothing so deadly for all concerned as saying nothing. The people simply go away saying, our alderman could do better than that."

Smith to Make Tour of California Within Five Weeks.
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 29.—Gov. Smith of New York will invade California on a whirlwind tour within the next five weeks, said an announcement yesterday by Justice S. W. Wardell, who returned yesterday from a conference with Democratic leaders in the East, said Smith would make one speech in San Francisco and another in Los Angeles, and possibly others in both Northern and Southern California. He said the candidate would make his California headquarters at the home of former Senator James D. Helan at Los Gatos.

SMITH PREPARES TO RESUME HIS JOB AS GOVERNOR

Democratic Nominee Departs From New York for Syracuse to Attend Farm Dinner Tonight.

WILL VISIT STATE FAIR TOMORROW

Expects to Reach Albany Thursday Evening—Three Tentative Itineraries Drafted for Tour.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—After a week of attention to his responsibilities as Democratic presidential nominee, Gov. Smith today stepped back into his role as chief executive of New York, and will play the part, unless something untoward occurs in the meantime, until he decides which one of three drafts of his speaking itinerary is acceptable.

With nothing but State business on his mind, the Governor, with members of his family and a few friends, left here this morning for Syracuse to attend tonight the annual "farm dinner" given by Jerome D. Barnum, publisher of the Syracuse Post-Standard. Tomorrow he will make a brief non-political talk in the open air.

The Governor's daughter, Mrs. John Adams Warner, is en route to Hot Springs, Ark., for Senator Joe T. Robinson's notification of his nomination for Vice President.

He plans to say a few words at the Barnum dinner, but not doing national political lines. In emphasizing his reason for this, the Democratic presidential candidate likes to refer to last year's experience when, he says, there were only two Democrats present and he was one of them.

Indications today were that Smith would have something definite to say regarding his proposed stump tour of the country by the end of next week at the latest, or probably by Labor day. He expects to return to Albany Thursday night and spend a quiet week-end, but may go in for a little golf, as he did here yesterday with his friend William F. Kenny.

Reiterating his determination to avoid speaking out of doors as much as possible on his swing around the country, Smith told newspapermen the only reason he broke this rule Monday night at Newark was because a large crowd had waited several hours to see and cheer him.

"It's disappointing to crowds to have them waiting around for so several hours," he says, "and then to tell them only how much you think of them. They don't fail for that sort of talk. There is nothing so deadly for all concerned as saying nothing. The people simply go away saying, our alderman could do better than that."

PERU AND LIBERIA ADHERE TO TREATY

Independent Press of Colombia Questions Motives of Washington Government at Paris.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The State Department announced today that Peru and Liberia had officially adhered to the Kellogg treaty.

The Ambassador for Peru, Hernan Velarde, in a note to Secretary Kellogg, said the position taken by the American State Department, having initiated the negotiations of a multilateral treaty, would be "for all time a legitimate source of pride to the great nation of the United States of America."

(Denmark, Rumania, Bolivia and Austria have expressed their wish to sign the compact.)

By the Associated Press.
BELGRADE, Yugo-Slavia, Aug. 29.—Jugo-Slavia had the distinction yesterday of being the first nation outside of the original 15 signatories of the Kellogg-Briand pact to sign the renunciation of war treaty. Foreign Minister Marinkovic signed just six hours after receiving the official invitation.

By the Associated Press.
SOFIA, Bulgaria, Aug. 29.—Premier Llapcheff, shortly after receiving an invitation from the American Minister for Bulgaria to adhere to the Kellogg-Briand pact, stated that Bulgaria would gladly adhere to the treaty.

"We rejoice sincerely at each step made by the United States which brings the country closer to Europe," he told the correspondent of the Associated Press. "We appreciate above all the new manifestation of this approach. Bulgaria will gladly adhere to the pact."

Cuban Cabinet Approves Pact at Special Meeting.
By the Associated Press.
HAVANA, Aug. 29.—A special meeting of the Cuban Cabinet today approved the Kellogg treaty renouncing war. Legislative ratification is expected at a special session of the assembly, which has been called to assemble Friday.

Noble Brandon Judah, United States Ambassador, expressed gratification at the promptness with which Cuba accepted the invitation to adhere to the treaty. The invitation was delivered by the Ambassador to President Grau and State Department officials yesterday. "Cuba desires to be the first in the Western Hemisphere in its acceptance of the pact," said Dr. Angel Miguel Campa, sub-Secretary of State.

U. S. Invites 48 Nations to Sign Treaty.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The Kellogg-Briand treaty was placed before 48 other nations yesterday by American diplomatic representatives for consideration and approval. Russia is being invited by France to join. Adherence by all of these nations would make the treaty effective among 64 nations.

Already a number of the governments have indicated informally that they are prepared to participate in the treaty.

In addition to Russia the roll call of the nations invited follows: Albania, Afghanistan, Argentina, Austria, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, Estonia, Ethiopia, Finland, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Hungary, Iceland, Latvia, Liberia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Mexico, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Panama, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Portugal, Rumania, Salvador, Yugo-Slavia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay and Venezuela.

"The United States has been anxious from the beginning," said the note of invitation, "that no State should feel deprived of an opportunity to participate promptly in the new treaty and thus not only align itself formally and solemnly with this new manifestation of the popular demand for world peace, but also avail itself of the identical benefits enjoyed by the original signatories."

Accordingly in the draft treaty proposed by it the United States made specific provision for participation in the treaty by any and every Power desiring to identify itself therewith, and this same

ASSAILS U. S. FOR DOMINATING LIBERIA

Raymond L. Buell Says State Department Urged Acceptance of Firestone Loan.

By the Associated Press.
WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 29.—Raymond L. Buell, research director of the Foreign Policy Association, speaking at the Institute of Politics today declared that the American State Department encouraged Liberian belief in a French menace to the republic's hinterland, and that Liberia accepted agreements with the Firestone Rubber Co. to obtain American support.

Explaining that he did not intend his remarks as "a partisan attack made for campaign purposes," Buell, author of a book on conditions in mandated territory, added: "The Government of the United States, as it is at present administered, offers the amazing spectacle of a Government closing the American market to all foreign competitors and yet of attempting to 'capture' foreign markets for American business men and of establishing a Government-aided, artificially supported merchant marine to take away business from foreigners."

Assault Attempted Domination.
"This is not a policy of international co-operation; it is a policy of attempted domination," the Liberian example is a good example of this philosophy.

Buell reviewed the Firestone agreements for the lease of 1,000,000 acres in Liberia, asserting that just before they were signed Harvey Firestone had "insisted" on a loan on terms proposed by the United States in 1921. These terms, rejected by the Senate, had provided for an American Financial Commission to govern Liberia, the speaker said.

"The cabinet," he continued, "at first decided not to accept this sudden proposal, but as the difficulties with the French over the boundary became more acute and as Liberia was afraid of losing the support of the United States, the Liberian Government finally agreed to accept a loan provided that it came from a source independent of Mr. Firestone. The new loan agreement authorizes a 40-year loan of $5,000,000 at 7 per cent. The American Firestone Corporation, which is apparently a subsidiary of Mr. Firestone and the National City Bank, buys, however, only $2,500,000 at 90. The second half of the loan may be issued later."

"As a guarantee all Liberian revenues are to be collected under the supervision of an American financial adviser, a supervisor of customs and a supervisor of internal revenue."

Liberia, Buell said, must use the proceeds of the 7 per cent loan to redeem outstanding 5 per cent bonds and then is obliged to pay off her internal debt.

Says Firestone Insisted on Loan.

G. O. P. Nominee Takes Personal Charge of His Campaign for the Presidency.

TARIFF TO BE BIG ISSUE IN THE EAST

Republicans Appear Divided Over Plans for That Section—Groups Working Independently.

By CHARLES MICHELSON.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Chairman, Work of the Republican National Committee is to be dispatched to Maine to advise with campaign managers there, Maine with its early State election, is the recognized barometer state, and the size of its Republican majority is deemed of great importance.

A conference at Herbert Hoover's residence yesterday preceded the announcement, so this action marks the first effort of Hoover to assume charge of his own campaign.

Work's absence in Maine, where there are to be banquets and other functions, will relieve him of important consultations here. Hoover today is to talk over campaign finances with National Treasurer J. R. Nutt and Eastern Treasurer Jeremiah Millbank. Then he is to decide, with the assistance of Representatives Newton of Minnesota and Tillam of Connecticut, heads of the Western and Eastern groups, and with Manager God of the Chicago headquarters, the assignment of campaign orators.

Tomorrow Hoover is to plunge into the New York situation. H. Edmund Machold, the newly elected New York State chairman, and William Hill, chairman of the New York Hoover-Curtis Campaign Committee, have been summoned, and a little later John S. Richardson, who conducted the pre-convention campaign for Hoover in Massachusetts, is to tell the candidates what's right and what's wrong in the Bay State—all while Work is checking up on Maine.

In one particular at least, Work's advice is being heeded. Word has gone out that prohibition is to be played down and prosperity, particularly tariff property, is to be featured in the East. Hence the publicity given Lamont du Pont's declaration that, while he thinks Hoover is wrong on the wet and dry question, the paramount thing is the financial welfare of the country under Republican rule.

The obvious explanation of this ignoring of the prohibition issue is that the Republicans recognize Hoover is at a disadvantage in the wet East. His dry stand is considered an assurance against losses in the West and the border states and the efforts of some of his supporters to show that really he might not be so dry after all, brought nothing but laughter on the Atlantic seaboard. The alternative is to forget it—which Work suggested in the beginning and was called down for.

Republicans Apparently Divided on Campaign Plans in East.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—With the return of Herbert Hoover from the West, there has been an increasing pressure upon New York and New England for greater activities in those sections. The set-up of the Eastern organization never has been precisely described and apparently there are several groups operating independently.

One set of managers now advises a general headquarters for the East and New York City while others propose that the fight in New York and New Jersey be carried on under a directing force distinct from one to have charge of affairs in New England and especially in states like Massachusetts and Rhode Island where the Democrats are concentrating their efforts.

There also is an increasing demand from the South for more effective organization work there. In that section, too, some advisors would have the effort concentrated largely where local leaders claim Hoover sentiment has been manifested.

These are some of the major problems Hoover must dispose of while he is working out plans for his personal participation in the campaign, which, it is becoming more and more evident, is likely to be upon a much more extensive scale than he had contemplated.

100,000 Facing Starvation in Haiti.
PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Aug. 29.—President Borno issued the following statement today: "More than 100,000 people are facing starvation in the hurricane devastated area. All animals were killed and entire crops were destroyed. Cultivated farms were either drowned out or completely washed away. It will take from three to six months to grow new crops."

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight for the rights of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely passing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Davis Case.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
A POST-DISPATCH editorial on August 23 commended the police who shot "Bill" Davis, a supposed gangster, on August 23, the police having claimed that they were "practically certain" that this man had been guilty of the murder of Clifford M. Hicks some time past, although they "could not prove it."

Why not detail this efficient police lieutenant and his aids, or some like efficient squad, to perform such a service in the case of any man of whom someone is "practically certain" that he is guilty of a crime? What a vast amount of legal procedure would be saved!

This would make it easy, too, for the police to get rid of anyone against whom they held a grudge—nothing so easy! First arrest the man on some charge, convert him into a "police character" with the attendant notoriety and blackmailing with anyone who otherwise might give him honest employment. Haul him over the coals on every pretext thereafter, decide it is "practically certain" that he is guilty of some crime which the police have not succeeded in ferreting out, and let the big, bold policemen form an ambush with their machine guns. Nothing so simple!

There is, of course, an old idea that every man is innocent until he is proved guilty, and there is an old idea that any man accused of crime has a right to trial by jury of his peers. But why should a busy, hurrying public worry about justice to a man against whom public opinion has turned? Leave him to the tender mercies of the ambushed machine gun!

OBSERVER.

Sauce for the Goose.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE letter appearing in this column entitled "Sauce for the Goose," which, I suspect, was written, not by a "Traveler," but by a schoolboy, attempts to make a parallel between occasional attempts to violate the customs laws and the nation-wide revulsion against, and violation of, the Volstead act. Such an attempt obviously fails of its own ineptness. There is no large body of people who believe that the customs laws are unjust; on the contrary, like most statutes, they are supported by the unanimous body of public opinion. They are not sumptuary legislation. Nor have the efforts to enforce them been a failure. They have not resulted in a general contempt for law; they have not produced widespread violence and crime; they have not debauched the courts of justice or broken down the morale of society. The Volstead act has done all of those things. Hence the absurdity of the analogy.

THINKER.

We Were Not Represented.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
I READ an article of your Sunday Magazine, entitled "The Revolt of the Furniture Designers," the following lines:

In 1925 there was held in Paris an International Exposition of Decorative Arts. . . . Almost every nation of the world sent examples of furniture, glass, silver, pewter, rugs and textiles.

The United States was well represented at this exposition.

It is evident the writer did not get his information from any visitor to that exposition, other than the writer himself, made such an amazing statement. One of the most conspicuous features of the exposition was the complete absence of such a great country as the United States. Indeed "almost every nation of the world was represented," even very small ones, and each one had its own building. Some of the buildings were gorgeous, as Italy's. The Bolsheviks themselves were there and, by the way, their exhibition was perfectly terrible! But to the astonishment and, I dare say, the humiliation of the American tourists asking the United States quarters the answer was, "There is no such thing."

I remember very well that at the time the question was raised in the press, and even in the Post-Dispatch. Several reasons were given for this strange omission. One of them was that the American furniture and decoration industry was perfectly aware of the fact that the United States Congress, taking no interest in art, would never vote a cent to favor such an exhibition, which is a customary and necessary condition in all occasions of the kind.

H. DE LECLEUSE.

Brian-Kellogg Treaty.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
BRIAN and Kellogg have made clear how nations may keep the peace. It is quite simple. Long ago Kant said, "It is time that nations, like men, should emerge from the wild state of nature and contract to keep the peace. The whole movement of history is the ever greater restriction of violence, the continuous enlargement of the area of peace."

Individuals used to fight now they go to law instead of to swords. Let the light shine wider as the sun rises. The substitute for war is that men shall agree to recognize the verdict of a tribunal in the settlement of national differences.

LEONORA B. HALSTED.

THE DEMOCRATS AND BUSINESS

It was the economic heresies of Mr. Bryan that at last cost the Democratic party the confidence of business. The Cleveland battles had been won largely by that element in business which does not benefit by a high tariff. To a degree the Adamson law of 1916 was a contributor to the breach which Bryan had made between the Democrats and business. As a result of the Adamson law, which Mr. Wilson, fast being drawn into the World War, put through Congress to avoid a railroad tie-up, the United States Supreme Court conceded the right of Congress to fix the hours and wages of workmen engaged in interstate commerce. This dictum stands. It was perhaps inevitable, but it operated as a scarecrow that continued to keep out of the party many business men estranged by Bryan. The Cox campaign found business almost solidly ranged upon the Republican side. The Davis campaign, despite the corruption of the Harding administration and the long association of the candidate with the house of Morgan, failed to lessen the widespread defection of business from the Democratic party.

It is this situation which Mr. John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, faces. The New Yorkers who nominated Gov. Smith are good politicians. They know why there were one and one-half Republicans in the country four years ago, and they seek to equalize that state of affairs. Mr. Raskob, a nabob among business men, makes an excellent point in this connection. He says it is not good even for big business to have the purchasing power of the farmer destroyed. There must be a greater distribution of the national wealth. He says business men in the East, who know Gov. Smith quite well, are not afraid of him. An adroit man, and not wishing to hurt the feelings of Western Democrats, the former chairman of the Finance Committee for General Motors implies that the Smith candidacy is not to be confused with the Bryan era.

In undertaking to restore to the Democratic party the confidence of business Mr. Raskob has the well wishes of the Post-Dispatch. The party balance in the United States is essential to our form of government. Unless it is maintained the Government will not have the benefit of adequate criticism, and it will become an oligarchy. The Democratic party, in the absence of any other considerable opposition, is therefore much more important than the voter realizes. It ought to be strong and it ought to be active in the popular interest. It loses its usefulness when an impression prevails among business men that to have it gain control of the Government would injure business. There is nothing in the theory of democracy that is antipathetic to business as such. It merely enjoins upon it fair dealing. That is as far as the Democratic party should ever go, and Gov. Smith says that under his leadership that is as far as it ever will go. Mr. Raskob echoes this assurance.

HELEN THE SUPERB.

This has surely been a Helen Willis year. The Girl from the Golden West has taken the tricolor of France, the Union Jack and the Star-Spangled Banner and walked off the tennis courts with all three gontalons flowing from her invincible shoulders "like trailing clouds of glory," as Mr. Wordsworth put it. To be technical for an instant, she did all this without losing a set. And she did more. She piled Pelion on Ossa, or is it Ossa on Pelion?—well, anyhow, she paired with Mrs. Wightman to add the doubles championship to her collection, by way of incomparable epilogue.

More still. While performing all these prodigies Helen found time to deliver a panegyric on Mr. Hoover which depicted that stern votary of abstinence in the plumed allurements of a matinee idol. Will any admirer of Gov. Smith resent Helen's devotion to Herbert? We trow not. The gal for Al will simply observe that as a politician Helen Willis is a corking tennis player.

A SOUTHERN JUDGE IN BROOKLYN.

Anybody who has been in America can testify to the reality of the strain which a rigid centralization will impose on wide districts sometimes as large as nations, and nearly as different as nations. There is at this moment a severe strain between the Puritanism of the Middle West and the paganism of the New York social life. I am not sure that this is not more truly spiritual as schism than the old schism between the North of Lincoln and the South of Lee. This acute statement was made recently by G. K. Chesterton, the celebrated English critic. It has just had a practical illustration in New York. In the shuffling of Judges during the vacation term, Judge William H. Atwell, who hails from Dallas, Tex., was assigned to Brooklyn. Judge Atwell brought with him all the prejudices of his section, and they are prejudices which New York does not share and does not understand. When he proceeded to apply in the liberal East the standards of Puritanic Texas, he stirred up a furor which will not down until he is sent back home.

Brooklyn, for example, is amazed by Judge Atwell's attitude in liquor cases. In the words of the Nation, "he has spread panic in Brooklyn by his severe sentences for infractions of the Volstead act." It cannot understand Judge Atwell's attitude on the Negro question, and his admonition to an Italian accused of serving liquor to whites and blacks to have nothing to do with Negroes. It is astonished by the Judge's rebuke to Attorney F. R. Serri, who questioned the veracity of certain officers of the law. The rebuke was: "In my section of the country, had you made any such accusation against an officer of the law, he would have smashed you before you got out of the courtroom."

For Texas Judge Atwell may be an excellent Judge. For New York he will not do. We will be wise if we recognize the differences between various parts of the country and, further to quote Chesterton, "ride local differences with an easier rein," giving "elbow room to varieties of culture."

MONTMARTRE AND THE COMMUNITY STREET.

A very discreet and tactful institution is the "Rescue Station for Intellectuals" which has recently set out to solve the "problem" of how to help French writers in distress. It is proposed that prosperous authors seek out their less fortunate fellows who are in need of assistance but are too proud to ask for a loan. The secretary speaks of "these delicate cases" which may be taken care of by "anonymous money orders."

And therewith goes another one of our sentimental illusions. While we were well aware that the tradition embodied in "La Vie de Boheme" had long since passed into limbo, we had not realized that the imprudent poets of the Boulevard Montmartre had become so conservative, so scrupulous. It had always been our impression that a 50-franc loan was as a mere nothing. A convenient thing of the day, to be forgotten tomorrow. All this, it seems, has changed and we have a "Rescue Station for Intellectuals" which sounds rather like a Salvation Army post. The regimentation of the world goes on apace.

IN MEDIEVAL MASSACHUSETTS.

Pending further investigation, Municipal Judge Murray of Boston has withdrawn the warrant issued against Dr. Horace M. Kallen, one of the leading philosophical thinkers of the United States. Dr. Kallen was charged with violation of a blasphemy statute enacted in the year 1897 because, during the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting last week, Kallen said: "Sacco and Vanzetti were anarchists; so were Jesus Christ, Socrates and others." The statute provides a punishment for anyone who denies, curses or contemptuously reproaches God. The Boston police believe it a violation of this statute to say that Christ was an anarchist, namely, one who believes in the absence of government as the ideal of political liberty and social harmony.

Dr. Kallen, formerly a lecturer at Harvard, was educated at that school, at Princeton, Oxford and Paris. He holds the degree of Ph. D. William James, the great psychologist, named Kallen editor of his unfinished book. He is a member of learned societies here and abroad, has written numerous books and treatises and is now a member of the faculty of the New School for Social Research. When Dr. Kallen said that Christ was an anarchist he had no intention to deny, curse or contemptuously reproach God; he merely gave it as his scholarly, reasoned opinion that Christ's social philosophy had many points of resemblance to what is now known as anarchism.

It is essentially humorous to find Boston policemen disputing so nice a point as this with a professor of philosophy. It would be safe to wager 99 per cent of the Boston police force do not know what anarchy is, and that they confuse it with bomb-throwing and disorderly demonstrations on the commons. They are unable to differentiate between the profound connotation of the word when uttered by a philosopher and its use as an expletive by the Desk Sergeant.

Massachusetts' blasphemy statute was enacted shortly after the Bay State colonists went crazy on the subject of witchcraft. It was a product of the era when Massachusetts was a theocracy under the domination of such eminent witch hangers as Cotton Mather, author of "Memorable Providences Relating to Witchcraft and Possessions." To revive this 231-year-old law to harass a professor of philosophy in the year 1928 is a piece of medievalism of which only Massachusetts is capable.

HOW ABOUT IT, MR. BROOD?

In a letter resigning as chief civil engineer of the City Building Department, which he says was written on Aug. 15, Louis N. Beals Jr. makes serious charges against the head of the department, Director of Safety Brood. He accuses the Director with requiring engineers in some instances to make reports overlooking dangerous conditions in important buildings under construction and in other instances to be severely and unfairly exacting. Inspectors who have refused to obey these orders have been reprimanded, Mr. Beals says, and he specifically cites the dismissal of his assistant, Mr. Saunders, as arbitrary and unjust.

Mr. Brood has denied having received Mr. Beals' letter of resignation. That point is now immaterial. Mr. Beals has made public charges which are of too grave a character to be ignored. If they are true Mr. Brood should be summarily removed as Director of Public Safety.

THE CARDINALS.

Psychology is too new a science to say what causes a baseball slump. It has not yet found out what demoralizes us so far that juries will acquit people like Sinclair. Truth to tell, it is in a bad way with respect to modern problems, and has had to strengthen its forces by putting into the field the new science of behaviorism. With psychology watching on one side and behaviorism on the other, it ought to be possible within a few thousand years for us to know why prohibition started a great many people to drinking, why marriage does not take any better than it does, how Mr. Coolidge ever got to be President, and why city people want to live in the country while country people want to live in town.

It is therefore too early to hope that we can discover what causes a baseball slump. That is at least a low-grade phenomenon that will not get anybody into a pantheon. The Cardinals have just emerged from one. They have been urged, exhorted, abused, sworn at, laughed at, appealed to, importuned in the name of local patriotism, beseeched for the sake of fireside and friend, and tearfully reminded that they are favorites all over the Southwest to win the pennant. Their response to this has been dreadful. For three weeks this best-balanced of all the baseball teams, a battering ram on attack and a stone wall in defense, has been kicked around, cuffed, jumped on, beaten, humiliated and massacred by opponents, good, bad and indifferent.

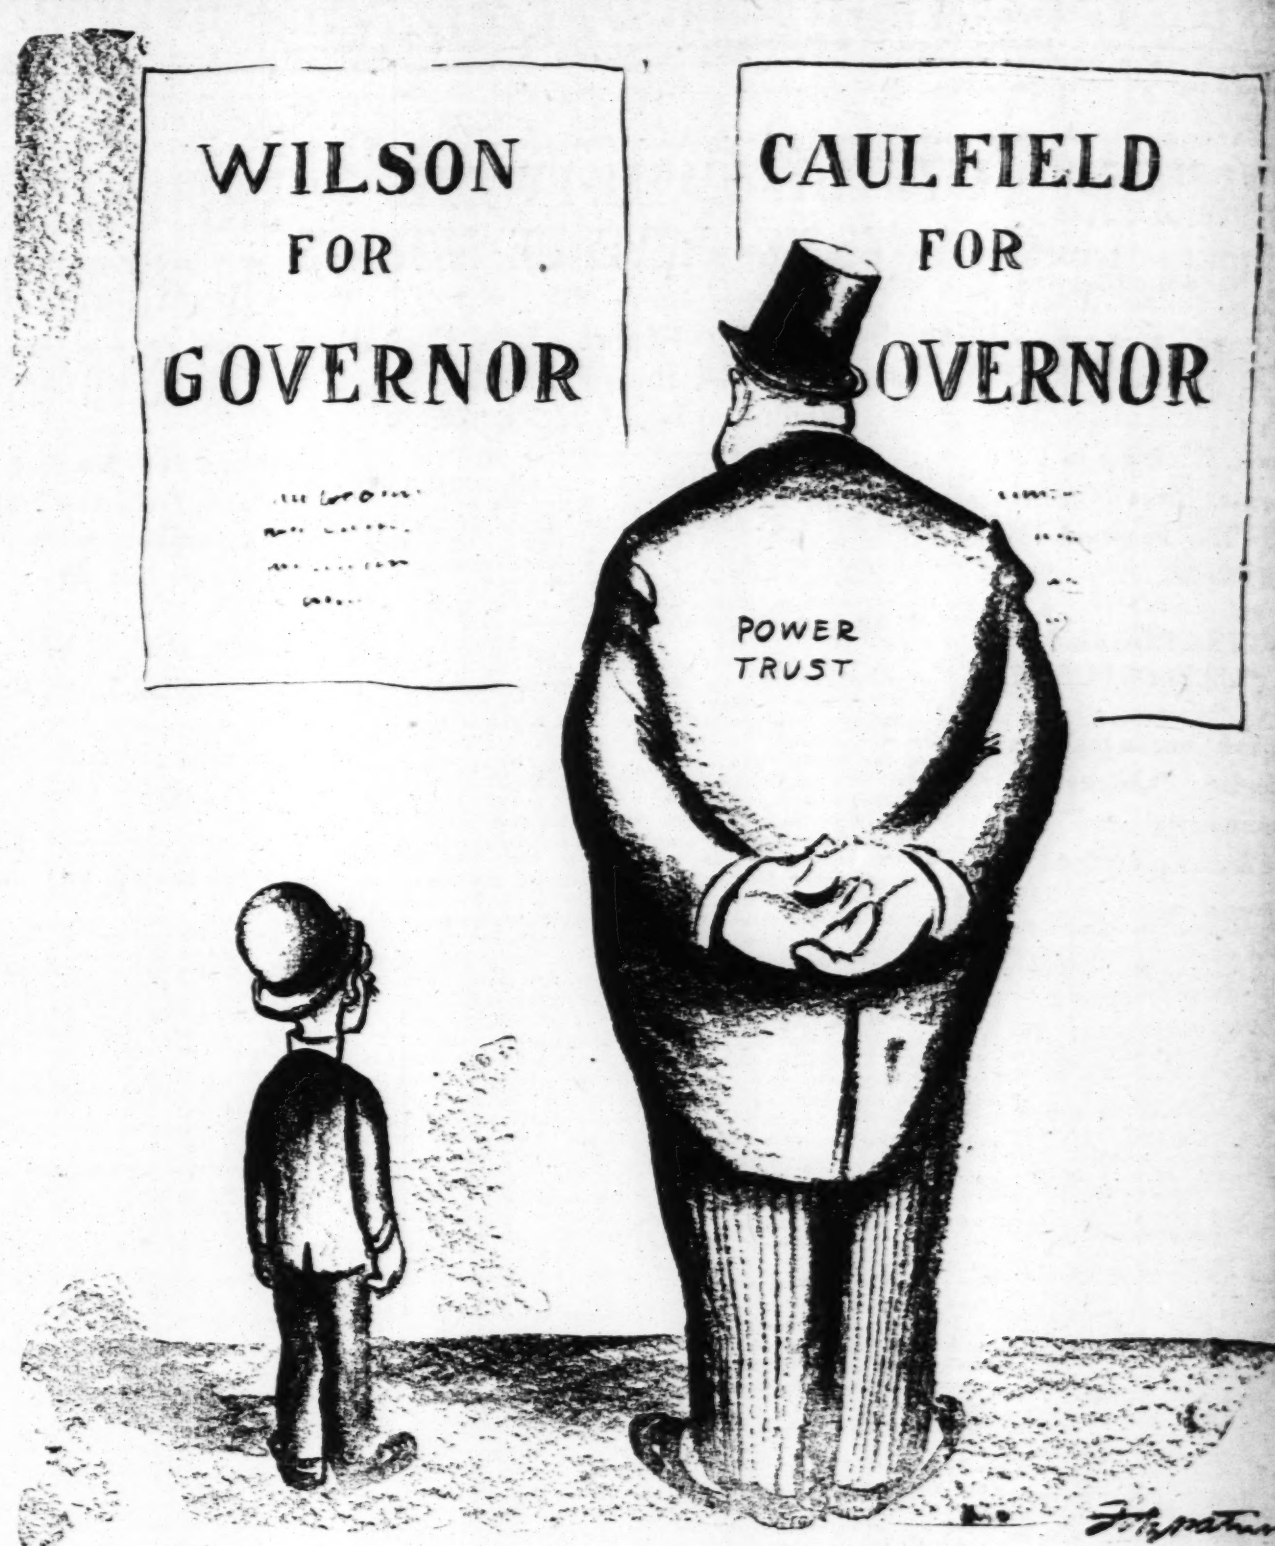

It happens to every baseball team. Fortunately, the Cardinals have 30 more games to play. If their revenge is going to be anything like their suffering they will not only win the pennant, but will again beat the Yankees.

THE SACCO-VANZETTI MEETING.

Police Chief Gerk has wisely decided not to interfere with the Sacco-Vanzetti memorial meeting which has been scheduled at Druid Hall Friday night by the International Labor Defense and the Anti-Fascist Society. A previous meeting was prevented when a police captain called on the owner of a hall which had been engaged for the purpose and suggested to him that the meeting might result in disorder. Thus far there has been no satisfactory explanation of this premature intrusion by the police, nor has Chief Gerk told why he attempted to consult the Italian Consul about the matter. He should know that interference by a foreign Consul in such a matter would be a grave impropriety.

It would be extremely unfortunate if the impression got out that freedom of speech and assemblage are in danger from the police in St. Louis. We believe they are safe. This is not Boston, nor is it the West Virginia coal fields. The Bill of Rights has not been repealed here, and the police are without authority to do more than preserve the peace.

The crane shot by Mr. Coolidge was probably a great blue heron, but it is too late to hope that any Coolidge myth will be exploded.

WHO'S WHO AND WHAT'S WHAT?

The Crisis in Manchuria

Japan and the Chinese Nationalists are at odds over Manchuria which, the latter claim, is an integral part of China; Japan seeks to control Manchuria through young Chang as it did through his father, but, with the growing spirit of independence in China, it may strike a snag.

From the Nation.

JAPAN'S super-patriotic Premier, Baron Tanaka, is bringing Asia to the verge of another war. He is playing fast and loose with the rights of the Chinese people and defying the Washington Treaty which pledged the great Powers to respect the integrity of China.

The Sino-Japanese crisis involves a number of problems—the incidents of Nanking and Tsinan, the abrogation of an old treaty with Japan by the Chinese Nationalist Government, the control of Manchuria by Japan, and the Russian pressure on Mongolia. Overshadowing the other problems is the Japanese control of Manchuria.

The Chinese have never admitted that Manchuria is anything else than an integral part of China, and nominally the rest of the world has agreed with them. The Nationalists, pushing northward from Canton to Peking, have kept their eyes on Manchuria as the coveted goal of their ambition and the final test of Chinese control over China. When they finally captured Peking and Chang Tso-lin was killed, they opened negotiations with the titular head of Manchuria, old Chang's son, Chang Hsueh-liang, to bring Manchuria into the new Nationalist China.

It seems clear that the Chinese people of Manchuria wanted to throw in their lot with the Nationalists and that young Chang was anxious to reach an agreement. Reports from Mukden and Tokio indicate that an agreement was virtually completed when the Japanese stepped in. Under that agreement Chang Hsueh-liang was to keep control of Manchurian domestic affairs and in return hold the Nationalist flag, swear allegiance to the principles of Sun Yat-sen, and leave the control of Manchurian foreign affairs to the National Government at Nanking. All things considered, this was a natural compromise in a difficult situation, and any nation which possessed self-government would have been permitted to carry it out.

But Baron Tanaka protested. He declared that Japan would use all its power to prevent Nationalist domination of the Manchurian Government. He sent Baron Hara to Mukden to see Chang Hsueh-liang, and young Chang immediately suspended negotiations with the Nationalists even when his own people were clamoring for the completion of the agreement. What caused the sudden weakening of Chang Hsueh-liang? To those who are familiar with the Japanese procedure in Manchuria the natural answer is money and military pressure. Japan has treated the Government of Manchuria as a dependency for many years and finds it even easier to dominate young Chang than his father.

What can the Nationalists do to win back Manchuria to China? Their armies are too weak to fight Japan directly, but several strong forces are on their side. Most important of all is the great preponderance of Chinese people in Manchuria. How can 200,000 Japanese control 25,000,000 Chinese who are hostile to them? Such things have been done in history, but Japan will find the control most costly. Moreover the Chinese population of Manchuria is growing prodigiously by immigration from the famine-swept areas of Central China while Japan's program of migration into Manchuria has been a failure.

Also, China has the boycott—and the former Chinese boycotts against Japan have done sufficient damage to win respect for the boycott as an effective weapon. Dr. C. C. Wu, Special Envoy from Nationalist China, threatened Japan with such a boycott in his speech at the Williamsstown Institute. At the same time Dr. Wu offered to the Japanese assurance of economic opportunity in Manchuria. "We are prepared to protect Japan's economic interests," he said, "but that is no reason for usurping political control over Manchuria. We object to Japan's political domination over Manchuria, which we consider to be an infringement of China's sovereignty. We are prepared, however, to welcome further investment by Japan or other countries in Manchuria or anywhere else."

If Japan is unwilling to accept this adjustment of power in Manchuria, the Nationalists have the ancient answer of military force. They are weak now, but an ominous revival of military spirit is sweeping China as a result of Japanese aggression. Compulsory military training has been ordered in all Government schools, and the order has been met with marked enthusiasm by the students. In Shanghai alone 15,000 students, including many girls, bought cadet uniforms.

If the Manchurian crisis leads to an open war, the responsibility will rest largely upon the nations which signed the Nine-Power Treaty at the Washington Conference and pledged themselves to respect the integrity of China. The pledge was definite and unmistakable—and the United States and Japan were parties to the pledge. In the face of Japan's open violation of the pledge the least that our State Department can do is to protest vigorously and repeatedly until Manchuria is allowed to unite with the rest of China.

MR. KELLOGG'S SOUR NOTE.

From the Baltimore Evening Sun.

MR. KELLOGG'S first utterance on arriving in Europe was to inform the dignitaries of Plymouth, England, that the multilateral treaty is "a great moral step, a treaty over which nations must override before they can make war again."

No doubt the treaty is "a great moral step," since, by common consent, it doesn't seem to be anything else. One hopes that this virtue, at least, still adheres to it. Unfortunately, though, Europeans heard a great deal of talk about morality in connection with treaties some 10 years ago.

Ever since, treaties based on morality have carried, in the minds of Europeans, associations of the most regrettable type. Therefore Mr. Kellogg, in his very first speech, strikes a note which is bound to remind his hearers of the slaughter of men, the destruction of cities, the blasting of the cow tyrants and the ruin of nations. For these were the fruits of the "moral" treaties of the pre-war days.

My heart, avoid the waiting snare
That trips the heedless unwary;
We cannot loose the ties that bind.
Too soon, alas, our loss to find
If we dare pluck, the heart must rest.

The foolish quest of love forever,
No futile heights of passion dare,
Devotion to false Cupid blind
My heart avoid.

'Twas small my reck and scant my care
Of such advice when love seemed fair,
I did not think she would not mind,
And she was rather less than kind
To leave my life all empty, bare,

J. D. H.

Of Making JOHN G.

It's All Settled Now

THE OPEN CONSPIRACY. By G. Wells. (Doubleday Doran)
It has long been apparent to H. G. Wells was possessed by a commendable desire to reform the world. Not only has he done this with the avails of the present, but taking all time for his provision he has endeavored to reform, past, as careful readers of his revised "Outline of History" will have noted. If it can be said that the Wellesian world in its various amended forms is always a somewhat well adapted to the present, Mr. Wells himself, the fact that he is no more surprising than that family likeness. It is reported that high authority that an even greater author modeled his creature after his own image.

However, the full scope of Wells' scheme of reformation, set forth in the volume here noted, can scarcely have been suspected even by his most enthusiastic disciples. In "The Open Conspiracy" this world-maker not only reveals the world as he has planned it, but furnishes a set of "blueprints" together with detailed specifications. Nothing is left to chance but to build the perfect world planned.

It is not to be assumed by a casual reader of the foregoing that this is a scheme hastily conceived. Far from it. As early as 1915 Mr. Wells published what he then intended, but now openly avows, to be the first part of a "provisional Bible" for the "new movement" he is inaugurating. This was "The Outline of History" the new world will be called "Science of Life," and it will "be the data for personal conduct in a biologically conceived world society." (Mr. Wells began the part will be entitled "The Conquest of Power," and this "will present the collective economic policy" of the new world.

Thus positively everything has been arranged and nothing ever has been left to chance or the shunderings of unscientific teleists. "If you want something done well," says the old adage, "do it yourself."

As to the new world that has been planned for us, a brief description should suffice. There will be no nations, no races, no drawing of the color line in racial matters. There will be a central power in control of this world commonwealth, and those who wield that power will be very wise and good. War will be unthinkable, for the simple reason that the world will be a unit. Also, there will be no social classes with conflicting interests. Population will be limited by scientific birth-control.

HEAD OF POLISH FALCONS IN ST. LOUIS TOMORROW

Count Zamoycki, President of Athletic Society, to be Entertained by Local Organization.

Count Adam Zamoycki, president of the Polish Falcons of the World, a social and athletic club, and his daughter, Countess Jadwiga Zamoycka, both of Polish birth, will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow night for the reception of a public reception will be tendered by Count Zamoycki at the Polish-American Hall, 1340 Cass avenue. They will be guests of honor earlier a dinner given by Dr. Mari Wachowiak, at his home, at 51 Waterman avenue.

The Paderewski Society has arranged an elaborate musical program for the reception of Count Zamoycki and his daughter will leave Friday with several members of the local Polish club for the Polish-American Falcons' biennial convention and athletic meet at Syracuse, N. Y., which opens Saturday.

AGAIN HEADS CATHOLIC WOMEN

Mrs. Sophia Wavering Re-Elected President of National Union.

By the Associated Press.
ST. CLOUD, Minn., Aug. 29.—Mrs. Sophia W. Wavering Quincy, Ill., was re-elected president of the National Catholic Women's Union at the twelfth annual convention of the organization here yesterday. She has held the office for five years. Miss Amalia Ottenberger, Louisiana, was re-elected corresponding secretary and recording secretary. Divorce and companionate marriages were condemned. Marriages were denounced as "the ruinous to health of the mind and soul, a hideous extension of one of the extremes to which unrestrained indulgence in drinking is bound to go."

Of Making Many Books

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

It's All Settled Now

THE OPEN CONSPIRACY. By H. G. Wells. (Doubleday Doran).

It has long been apparent that H. G. Wells was possessed by a commendable desire to reform the world. Not only has he dealt with the evils of the present and the possibilities of the future, but taking all time for his province he has endeavored to reform the past, as careful readers of his recent, "Outline of History," may have noted. If it can be said that the Wellsian world in its various amended forms is always suspiciously well adapted to the temperamental biases and interests of Mr. Wells himself, the fact should be no more surprising than that of family likeness. It is reported on high authority that an even greater author modeled his creatures after his own image.

However, the full scope of Mr. Wells' scheme of reformation, as set forth in the volume here noted, can scarcely have been suspected even by his most enthusiastic disciples. In "The Open Conspiracy," the world-maker not only reveals the sort of world he has planned for us, but furnishes a set of "blue prints," together with detailed specifications. Nothing is left to do but to build the perfect world as planned.

It is not to be assumed by any casual reader of the foregoing that this is a scheme hastily conceived. Far from it. As early as 1918 Mr. Wells published what he then secretly intended, but now openly avows, to be the first part of a "provisional Bible" for the religious movement he is inaugurating. This was "The Outline of History." The second part of this Bible of the new world will be called "The Science of Life," and it will "give the data for personal conduct which is a biologically conceived world society." (Mr. Wells began his career as a biologist). The third part will be entitled "The Conquest of Power," and this "will present the collective economic policy" of the new world.

Thus positively everything has been arranged and nothing whatever has been left to chance or to the wanderings of unscientific intellects. "If you want something done well," says the old adage, "do it yourself." As to the new world that has been planned for us, a brief description should suffice here. There will be no nations, no races, no drawing of the color line in social matters. There will be a central power in control of the world, a world government, and those who would that power will be very wise and good. War will be unthinkable, for the simple reason that the world will be a unit. Also, there will be no social classes with conflicting interests. Population will be limited by scientific birth-control, and consequently there will be more than enough of everything for everybody, production and distribution of necessities and luxuries being under the control of the wise and good central power. The chief interest of this world society will be scientific research. To the unilluminated, Mr. Wells grants, all this may seem at first a bit fantastic. How shall it be realized? That sounds like a poser, but it isn't at all. Mr. Wells has the answer ready, and it is very simple indeed—as simple as all the rest of the book. Here is the answer: All over the world there are to be found men and women, scattered loosely about, who are gifted with a fine religious sense. These, upon reading Mr. Wells' latest volume, will proceed at once to organize little clubs for the purpose of mutual encouragement in the discussion of ways and means. The first act of such clubs will be to declare their unalterable intention never to serve in any war. (Of course, they might serve in a war of self-defense, but—you know—never in an unrighteous war.) This point, however, is now rendered unimportant, war having been outlawed quite recently. To proceed, there will be a natural fusing of these clubs into associations, and many movements already on the move will be persuaded to join "The Open Conspiracy." Socialists, Communists, Birth Controllers, Pacifists, and the like, will fall in line. There will be much talk on a high plane and abundant propaganda. And so the new "world commonwealth" will come into being in a peacefully natural way with scarcely a shock, and the central control of the world-society will function in accordance with the highest wisdom and goodness. As a further safeguard, this central power will be supervised by the people, who, also, will be both good and wise. No doubt every hamlet will have at least one monument to the creator of this perfect world and the sole author of its "provisional Bible" which, by that time, will have ceased to be regarded as provisional.

SHOW GIRL, BY J. P. McEvoy.

(Simon & Schuster). "Show Girl" is a louder and funnier and also a speedier book than the average. The wisecracks keep popping off like an old-time Fourth of July celebration, with an effervescent mixture of Broadway patter in dialogue, conversations by Postal Telegram and radiogram, newspaper clippings and reports to sales managers. Once started, it is a hard book to quit, for the author has so cleverly varied the tempo and filled it with good lines that no effort is involved. There is a well-defined and highly satisfying plot, and the entertainment value assays high. —Ferd Gottlieb.

HEAD OF POLISH FALCONS

IN ST. LOUIS TOMORROW

Count Zamoyski, President of Athletic Society, to Be Entertained by Local Organization.

Count Adam Zamoyski, president of the Polish Falcons of the World, a social and athletic society, and his daughter, Countess Jadwiga Zamoyska, both of Poland, will arrive in St. Louis tomorrow. A public reception will be tendered Count Zamoyski and his daughter tomorrow night at Polish-American Hall, 1940 Cass avenue. They will be guests of honor earlier at a dinner given by Dr. Marlon Wachowski, at his home, at 5933 Waterman avenue.

The Paderewski Society has arranged an elaborate musical program for the reception.

Count Zamoyski and his daughter will leave Friday with several members of the local Polish colony for the Polish-American Falcons' biennial convention and athletic meet at Syracuse, N. Y., which opens Saturday.

GEORGIA U. TO GET $1,500,000

ABOUT 1983 UNDER FREAK WILL

Inventor of Standard Life Insurance Tables Set Aside $7000

Under Certain Provisions.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—The University of Georgia today set about the task of collecting $1,500,000 due about 1983 under the will of the man who invented standard life insurance tables.

The investigation will take the university business staff into many states and foreign countries before the quest is ended, all because Prof. Charles F. McKay of Columbia University, New York, was a mathematical genius with an eccentric turn of mind.

The man, who as a Columbia professor compiled most of the early tables used by insurance companies relative to life expectancy, left $7000 to the University of Georgia at his death in 1883, with the provision that the accumulated principal and interest amounting to well over a million be given to the school 21 years after his last grand nephew and grand niece had died.

Since the professor had eight brothers and sisters, the university's task will not be ended for at least 55 years. The vend of trustees learner with surprise that the $7000 already has grown to $125,000.

$750,000 MOTHER HOUSE

FOR SISTERS OF ST. MARY

Work Is Started on Quarters for 250 Adjoining Hospital on Clayton Road.

Work has been started on the $750,000 mother house of the Sisters of St. Mary, just south of St. Mary's Hospital at Clayton road and Bellevue avenue, Richmond Heights.

A formal garden will separate the mother house from the hospital. Quarters for 250 sisters and novitiates of the order will be provided. Four stories high, the new building will face the hospital, two wings extending north and three to the south with gardens between them. A chapel in the middle southern wing will seat 400.

The Rev. Mother Concordia, superior general of the sisterhood, will supervise the construction, which will be completed in a year.

SUMMA FUNERAL TOMORROW

Civil Engineer Taught "Ido," Proposed International Language.

Funeral services for Victor M. Summa of 705 Greeley avenue, Webster Groves, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at Webster Groves Presbyterian Church.

Summa, who was 57 years old, died Monday at his home. He was a civil engineer and for several years had taught "Ido," a proposed international language, at Public Library. He was born in Italy and educated in Rome and at McGill University. He is survived by his widow, three sons and four daughters.

Day by Day in the West

By O. O. McIntyre

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 29.

APPROACHING Albuquerque.

As one comes upon the picturesque ruins of prehistoric civilizations.

There are stretches of foundations and broken walls of communal buildings — the first of American apartment houses. It is one of the most colorful cities in the union.

One sees the squat adobe houses with their windows and doors painted the green and pink of poisonous wall paper, Indians in their spring wagons seated by the side of their shawled and complacent squaws, herds of goats, cactus-eating burros, papooses in shoulder bags, and circling buzzards.

And the train thunders into the spreading station of Albuquerque with its terraced plots of brightly tinted flowers, modern flappers, camera slung tourists in plus fours, Indian rug, pottery and bow and arrow sellers—all like a sudden mirage in the desert.

The altitude is 4900 feet and the air is dry and heady like tangy wine. Meeting every train are tubercular convalescents, bright-eyed with the hope of seeing someone from home to relieve the monotony of their isolation. The city's population is near 40,000.

A few miles from town are Indian pueblos—cliff dwellers, snake dancers and sun worshippers living precisely as they did years before the Pilgrims landed on Plymouth Rock. There is an ineffable sadness about their shy yet engaging hospitality toward their conquerors.

Attracted by a beautifully colored clay vase, I inquired of the bronzed salesman his price. There was the despair of utter resignation in his "Pay what you like. It no matter." Little Indian children with full skirts and platted hair, too, sit in dull apathy.

In their glorious days, Albuquerque was the hub of the Indian country. They fashioned towns and cities with stone houses four stories high, irrigated fields and built ditches with the precision of skilled engineers. Then the white man came. And today they are almost aliens in their own land.

GALLUP, N. M., is one of the high points along the old Santa Fe trail. The air is so light that during an influenza epidemic several years ago the town was almost decimated. It has often been seen in moving pictures as the locale for those wild Western frontier dramas. Roaming wild dogs come down from the hills for scraps from the diners and sniff disdainfully at my poor little frightened city-bred pooch. He never looked such a sissie before.

THE only faux pas so far on the trip was in noticing the sign: "Dangerous to lean out the windows," after I had done my leaning.

ARIZONA'S distant backgrounds of beauty unroll beyond Gallup. Puffs of white clouds laze through skies of turquoise. And there are endless miles of dry river beds. Scattered across the desert where open doors and windows reveal bright walls of coral, lemon yellow and orange. Sandy cliffs rise to majestic grandeur and fall away to endless vistas of sagebrush and alkali dust. All of which sounds as though it might have been taken from a descriptive railroad folder. And maybe it was.

FLAGSTAFF is a Western town running true to scenario and Wild West story writing form. It has its wide main street facing the railroad depot with its commercial hotel, pool hall, bank, Bright Angel short order restaurant, curbside hitchhiking racks, spurs, chaps, neck bandanas, legs curved to the saddle and exposed six-shooters.

TONIGHT we cross the desert with its mysterious silence and creeping shadows. And tomorrow morning we will be among the blooming flowers and snow-capped peaks of Southern California. What, no climate? (Copyright, 1928.)

SIX KILLED, 15 INJURED WHEN BANK BUILDING CAVES IN Rescue Workers Told All Night in Shelby, N. C., Ruins and Find Two Unconscious.

SHELBY, N. C., Aug. 29.—Rescue crews had cleared away today the debris of the collapsed First National Bank Building. The death toll remained at six. Under the glare of automobile lights, a crew of 200 men, some of them relatives of the victims, worked all night to ascertain whether any more persons were under the piles of stone and timber.

Two men who were buried under the fallen structure were found unconscious. A crew of Negroes working in the basement at the time of the collapse was rescued during the night.

Mayor Dorsey has ordered an investigation which will start today. The list of seriously injured stood at 15. Among these were George Blanton, acting vice president of the bank, and several bank employees.

The collapse apparently was caused by excavation work in progress under an adjoining building.

provision is found in the definitive instrument signed today in Paris.

"It will also be observed that the Powers signing the treaty have recorded in the preamble their hope that every nation of the world will participate in the treaty, and in that connection I am happy to be able to say that my Government has already received from several Governments informal indications that they are prepared to do so at the earliest possible moment. This convincing evidence of the worldwide interest any sympathy which the new treaty has evoked is most gratifying to all the Governments concerned."

Attention of the Governments is called to the treaty's provision concerning adherence with the statement that "Any Government adhering promptly will fully share in the benefits of the treaty at the very moment it comes into effect."

Independent Press in Colombia Assails U. S. Motives.
BOGOTA, Colombia, Aug. 29.—The Conservative press in Bogota has been silent on the Kellogg-Briand pact, but independent newspapers, which have been opposing American activities in Nicaragua, comment unfavorably.

"The unjust intervention does not speak well of the Yankee spirit of pacifism," Espectador says. "Under these circumstances we must consider the proposal a clever maneuver on the part of the American Government to regain the favor of European statesmen which was lost through the war debt disagreements."

"Within a few months the anti-war pact will be scarcely a pleasant dream," says El Tiempo. "It was intended only to show graphically the supremacy of the United States."

Excavators Dig Up Wheat.
CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Excavators for the Merchandise Mart yesterday uncovered several hundred bushels of wheat grown more than 70 years ago. Chicago Historical Society officials said an elevator was on a site that about 1854 was owned by Armour interests.

CALLS CONFERENCE TO CUT AUTO DEATHS

President of Safety Council Says Reckless Driving Is Increasing Here.

A conference to consider means of checking the growing number of automobile fatalities and injuries will be held tonight at the home of Joseph T. Davis, president of the Safety Council, 7165 Kincaid place. All officers and past presidents of the Safety Council have been invited.

"Records of the Safety Council show that more people were killed by motor vehicles in St. Louis the first seven months of this year than were killed in all the homes and manufacturing plants," Davis said.

"The traffic accident situation is daily becoming more acute, reckless drivers are more in evidence than they were a year ago."

A plan will be presented at the conference, Davis said, calling upon "all officials having direct contact with the traffic safety problem to exert every effort in the conduct of their offices in dealing with reckless drivers, speeders and other flagrant violators of our traffic laws."

Motor vehicle fatalities now total 115, as against 80 for the same period last year.

Donald W. Vance, 5-year-old Negro of 3013 Bell avenue, was fatally injured yesterday when struck by an automobile driven by Charles

WINS ON DOG RACES BUT LOSES IN HOLDUP

Switch-Tender Robbed of $700 by Two Negroes Near His Home.

Getting a hot tip on a race at the Madison Kennel Club last night, Charles Cline, 7826 Michigan avenue, a switch tender, wagered $200 and increased it to $450.

Although he lost $50 on another race and friends borrowed $100 from him, Cline was feeling all right as he approached his home with $700 at 1:15 a. m. today. At the mouth of an alleyway on Frisco street between Pennsylvania and Minnesota avenues, two Negroes held him up.

Cline was carrying an open pocket knife in his hand for such an emergency. When one Negro struck him on the jaw and the other grabbed one of his assailants in the back and chest. Then the Negroes disarmed him and choked him into insensibility. When he recovered, the knife, the Negroes and the $700 were gone. His water and $3 in another pocket remained. Detectives last night arrested two Negroes, Lester Bollinger and Ray Probst, at the request of Maplewood police, who said the men were wanted there for robbery.

Getting a hot tip on a race at the Madison Kennel Club last night, Charles Cline, 7829 Michigan avenue, a switch tender, wagered $200 and increased it to $850.

Although he lost $50 on another race and friends borrowed $100 from him, Cline was feeling good as he approached his home with $1700 at 1:15 a. m. today. At the Headquaters last night, they heard a burglar alarm. Investigating, they found a Negro stuck between the bars of a rear window of the grocery of Simon George at 916 South Eighteenth street. On emergency, when one Negro struck him on the jaw and the other grabbed him by the neck, Cline stabbed one of his assailants in the back and chest. Then the Negroes disarmed him and choked him into insensibility. When he recovered, the knife, the Negroes and the $700 were gone. His watch and $1 in another pocket remained. Detectives last night arrested two Negroes, Lester Bollinger and Roy Probst, at the request of Maplewood police, who said the men were wanted there for robbery.

HELD FOR KILLING MAN WITH SHOT FIRED THROUGH WINDOW

Youth Thought to Have Meant to Injure Another man Who Had Moved From House.

MARION, Ill., Aug. 29.—Lester Dean, 21 years old, of Creal Springs, recently released from the State Reformatory at St. Charles, Ill., is in the county jail charged with the murder of John Parker, 73 years old, who was killed by a shot fired through the window of his home in Creal Springs Tuesday morning. Bloodhounds followed a trail from the Parker home to an automobile then picked up the trail again in front of Dean's home and followed it to the bedroom where Dean was arrested.

Dean and a son of Constable Adron Smith were arrested in 1924 for a series of robberies. Dean was convicted but Smith's son was released. Dean was arrested first on suspicion that he might have fired into the Parker home supposing that Smith still lived there. Smith moved out about three weeks ago.

COMMITTEEWOMAN RECOUNT DROPPED, NEGRO ELECTED

Partial Check Had Failed to Increase Total for Mrs. Kathryn Rosebrough, Who Protested.

An election contest by Mrs. Kathryn Rosebrough, former Republican City Committeewoman in the Twenty-third ward, who was defeated for re-election in the Aug. 7 primary, was dropped today after an incomplete recount of the ballots by the Board of Election Commissioners had failed to show any appreciable change in the original count.

On the face of the first count, Mrs. Ngomi Hughes Oldham, Negro, 3920 Fairfax avenue, in the field of five candidates, was declared winner by a vote of 1116 against 1092 for Mrs. Rosebrough, second highest.

Mrs. Rosebrough, who is secretary to Sheriff Schuler, insisted in her contest petition the recount would show 1392 votes for her against 816 for Mrs. Oldham. Her attorney, Ernest A. Green, notified the board the contest was withdrawn after the ballots from 12 of the 19 precincts in the ward had been recounted.

TWO BOONVILLE BOYS WHO ESCAPED MONDAY CAPTURED

Arthur Gann of St. Louis Caught in Franklin, Mo.; Other on Highway No. 40.

Arthur Gann of St. Louis and Theodore Raby of Fredericktown, Mo., who escaped from the Boonville Reformatory Monday night, were captured yesterday. Gann in the railroad yards at Franklin, Mo., and Raby along the St. Louis-Kansas City highway, No. 40. Gann was serving a term for robbery, Raby for arson.

Andrew Eigenbroten, serving a term for the Old Orchard Bank holdup in Webster Groves, and two other prisoners who escaped with him Sunday during a baseball game on the reformatory playground, are still at large.

Just as the August Sale Ends!
A marvelous purchase of
The Later Creations in

ONE of the country's leading Coat Houses found it necessary to immediately dispose of several hundred Coats of most recent production... Coats ordinarily not on the market until November. The price concession we were offered was too great to resist... nor will anyone who has not already chosen next Winter's Coat be able to resist this "eleventh-hour" opportunity in August to secure such a marvelous Coat at $58!

You will find in this collection the replicas of stunning Coats introduced in the recent Paris Openings. You will find finer fabrics and furs than could be expected in a $58 Coat because without exception these were made to sell for higher prices. Thursday will be a Record Coat Day when St. Louisans see these values!

You'll Find Your Type Coat in Your Size

BEAR MARKET IN STOCKS MEETS CHECK

Sensational Upward Movement of Stock Prices Checked by Heavy Profit-Taking Just Before Close—Extreme Gains of 2 to Nearly 14 Points Cut Down and in Few Cases Wiped Out.

STOCK MARKET AVERAGES.

30	20	10
Industrials	137.14	137.14
Transportation	137.14	137.14
High	137.14	137.14
Low	137.14	137.14
Close	137.14	137.14

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—A sensational upward movement of stock prices was checked by heavy profit-taking just before the close of today's market. Extreme gains, which ran from 2 to nearly 14 points in the active issues, were cut down, and in a few cases wiped out. Both the railroad and industrial averages compiled by the Associated Press showed net gains, the latter touching a new high record for all time. Trading started off at a terrific pace, with the result that the ticker fell more than 20 minutes behind the market, until it slowed down after the afternoon. Total sales were 3,743,000 shares. The unexpected ease of call money in the face of heavy month-end and Labor day demands provided the chief background for the upward movement. Call loans were offered at 7 1/2 per cent and the official rate held steady at that figure all day, but loans were arranged in the "outside market" as low as 7 per cent in the afternoon. Time money held firm at 6 1/2 per cent.

Plenty of Funds.
The source of the call supply of funds available on call at time when banks were preparing to meet the gigantic Sept. 1 dividend and interest demands, and the Labor day currency demands, variously estimated at from $50,000,000 to $75,000,000, was shrouded in mystery. Wall street rumors reported that foreign banks were large lenders, but these could not be confirmed. Many traders who had sold "short" on predictions of continued money would run up to 10 per cent again this week were caught in a trap and forced to cover their commitments at substantial losses. Public participation was again on a large scale, buying orders being particularly heavy from Western points.

New High Records.
Trade news continued favorable. Weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the stiffening commodity price tendency and the fact that steel demand and output were being maintained at high levels. All sorts of merger and dividend rumors were in circulation, many of them unconfirmed, but all served to fan the flames of speculation.

New high records were established by more than two-score issues, including such representative shares as American Can, U. S. Steel common, National Cash Register, Paramount-Famous-Lasky, Briggs Manufacturing, Loose-Wiles, International Nickel and Victor Talking Machine.

A brisk demand for the copper shares was influenced by comment that the refined storage stocks of the red metal were at the lowest level in years. American Smelting ran up more than 10 points to a new peak at 24 1/2, as against a low of 16 1/2 earlier in the year. Kennecott and Calumet & Hecla also moved into new high ground and Anaconda moved up 2 points.

Steel Closes Lower.
U. S. Steel common closed fractionally lower at 15 1/4 after having touched a new top at 15 1/2. General Motors showed a net gain of 1 1/4 points at 19 1/2, after it had sold at 19 3/4. There were a few conspicuous soft spots. Freeport Texas dropped 3 1/2 points and Houston Oil, Motor Products, Burroughs Adding Machine and several others dropped 2 points or more.

Rails failed to participate extensively in the advance although Texas & Pacific and St. Louis Southwestern reached new high ground. Establishment of a new high level for the year by Canadian exchange at 100 1/4 featured the steady foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held steady around 84 1/2.

Wheat and cotton prices were reactionary.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD AGAINST PREFERENTIAL RATES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The Federal Reserve board today announced that it would oppose any attempt to provide a preferential rate of interest or discount rate on loans secured by Government bonds, as against loans secured by other collateral.

The board's action was announced in a letter which it had drawn in reply to an unnamed

SHARES SOLD.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—Total sales, 3,743,000 shares, compared with 3,412,000 yesterday, 3,109,700 a week ago and 1,757,800 a year ago. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date 513,594,700 shares, compared with 361,372,400 for year ago.

MORRIS TO HEAD DIVISION 3 ROAD BOND CAMPAIGN

Mexico Man Is Named Chairman at Hannibal Conference—Other Appointments Announced.

MALANG, CUTLER AND
MAJ. STARK SPEAK

Former Says That if Private Firm Owned Highways,
It Would Seek Loan to Complete Them.

SPECIAL to the Post-Dispatch.
HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 29.—An organization was completed at a conference here Monday of representatives of the 11 counties in Division No. 3, Missouri State Highway Department, for carrying on a campaign for the proposed $750,000 road bond issue to be voted on in November. J. M.
Richards, head of the Northeast
Missouri and Hannibal Chambers of Commerce, presided.

Among advocates of the proposition who spoke at the meeting were Chief Engineer T. H. Cutler, Maj. Lloyd Stark, chairman of the Citizens' Road Bond Committee of Missouri; A. J. Murphy, Louisiana,
a member of that committee; John Malang, director of the Automobile Club of Missouri Good Roads Bureau, and R. S. Brownlee, Brookfield, a member of the Highway Commission.

Named to Lead Campaign.
The following appointments were announced by Mr. Richards for the campaign: Division chairman, Col.
Fred A. Morris, Mexico; division highway engineer, Harry D. Griffith, Hannibal; members of State
Executive Committee, J. M. Richards, Hannibal; Andrew J. Murphy, Louisiana; division members
women's executive committee, Miss Temple Burrus, Mexico, and Mrs.
Anne Nolan Christian, Monroe
City; division members, State Committee of Finance: Chairman,

lin, Palmira; Monroe, Clarence Evans, Paris; Pike, George Lynott, Louisiana; Ralls, A. G. Elam, Perry; Scotland, George W. Rudy,
Memphis; Shelby, I. B. Pickett, Shelbina.

Malang discussed the bond issue proposition. He said in part:
"The $750,000 bond amendment
is up for adoption or rejection.
There are three outstanding reasons why the amendment should prevail. It will speed up our road program, and enable us to complete the present highway system, as now laid out by law, six years earlier than on the pay-as-you-go plan.

"It provides for improvements in the way of betterment of the present highway system, such as relieving congested areas around
St. Louis and Kansas City, adding 300 miles of new road to the present system, connecting dead ends
and making interstate connections,
not now provided for by law; provides for roads to our State parks,
and provides and finances a farm-
to-market system, starting to build such a system in 1930, and in the first seven years provides a sufficient fund to expend $400,000
for the continuation after that period of the building of supplemental or farm-to-market roads
as long as the amendment is in our law and we continue to pay revenue to the State Treasurer.

State Roads "Utilities."
"The road system in Missouri and the proposed new roads are utilities, serving the people the same way as other utilities. The only difference between our road system as a utility and the railroad, telephone line, or electric light plant, is that railroads and other utilities are financed largely by private capital and are owned by individuals.

"The State road system is financed in a public way from public revenue, and is owned by the people. No class of utilities serves

—OF—
A WOMAN

—By—

Gerrit Mooers Marshall

HECKING IS UNIVERSAL.

East is East and West is West.

And never the twain shall meet.

And Sky stand presently

in God's great Judgment Seat;

there is neither East nor West,

nor North nor South nor Birth,

nor two strong men stand face to face.

They come from the ends

of the earth—

provided—so we add a foot—

to Kipling—

they are as one man—one man—

according to the tyranny of the earth.

We noticed girls and boys,

new and independent testimony.

East or west, a husband is a husband.

And a good wife is a BOSS?

Ask Capt. Hermann Keyserling,

the current "Liberty," once more breaking the chains of the American man—

present-day America," groans

the predominance as much as ever did;

American women have the self-consciousness of queens.

The American woman has conquered the most conspicuously position ever held on earth.

We are on to argue that she is the loser by this state of affairs.

That she doesn't find the American men

attractive love... or even husbands?

Of course, it wouldn't do for us to tell our lovers and hus-

bands

that they give perfect satisfaction

and want them to stop arriving in peace.

A woman to a man, don't we think a pretty decent lot?

Enter by what we've read of the treatment accorded women by foreigners in foreign lands.

We exchange lovers "or even husbands" with German frauen?

Nothing tells us we would not!

Well, a curtsy to the Count

he at least recognizes our superiority.

And this is the real news—

that what must make American men single gleefully, even in the midst of a heat wave—

Mrs. Halide Edib, Turkish

novelist, telling the Williams-

Brown Institute of Politics

the Terrible Turk is telling her the women's harem husbands?

What bear it?

Mrs. Edib explains what any psychologist might have told, if she had stopped to think.

The polygamous husband of the wives is simply six times as expected

the monogamous husband of the wife.

Just the other day the 16-

year-old Fu

in Paris in order to escape

100 wives.

There are Mrs. Edib's very words:

The women of the harems were

secluded, it is true,

they went about all the same wearing themselves with the heads of their homes.

He ruled their husbands and was with a rod of iron.

He never willingly accepted

divorce.

A man from those humble

dared to do such a thing.

He saw to it that he was married to the end of his life.

Turkish husbands is a surprisingly heaped one.

Turkish wives make it their business to see that he continues to do so.

The astute Bernard Shaw was telling us that Turkey

hasn't been against henpeck-

ing you remember how, in "Man and Superman," his woman-

kind here

had to flee to Turkey, "where women are protected from men."

Well, else out, according to the Turkish woman

is mean enough to tell tales

in the bazaar.

What false alarms her countrymen really are, when confronted with wives.

Young Frenchman has just published a clever novel

called "The Latitude of Love"—

widely, there is no such thing

as the latitude of henpecking.

Geographically omnipresent.

What of it?

Women are far from dying out over the process.

Life insurance statistics

show they live longer and healthier lives than unheaven-

cheeked husbands.

The basic reason for the distribution of henpecking

is the lady disposition of women.

The meekness and weakness

of husbands.

A great truth of Nature.

A helpless, foolish man needs

a strong and bossy

wife for his own good!

Why, the men are all alike.

Why Oriental and Occidental wives have to use an identical technique.

water and hang before the bedroom window. It will freshen the bedroom wonderfully.

Why Paris Sends Over Here for The Best American Fashion ModelsJean Patou, French couturier, and some of the New York manikins
he engaged.They Had to Be Tall, Slender, and Well Proportioned, but Above All It Was Necesssary That They Should Be "Natural."

By SALLY MACDOUGALL

FOUR years ago the celebrated
M. Jean Patou, couturier extraordinary, stirred up a small tempest in the fashionable dressmaking establishments of Paris and New York when he selected in the latter city a half dozen charming manikins whom he took back to France with him in order to display to the best advantage
his latest creations in feminine apparel. The French models, naturally enough, resented the implied criticism of their grace and beauty and there was much talk of a counter invasion, which, however, failed to materialize.American competition was short-lived, as matters turned out.
Several of the American girls married and the others came home at the expiration of their one-year contracts. So M. Patou, more than ever convinced that American girls make the best dress models, was forced to make a new importation. This time he left the selection to Senor Reynaldo Lusa, Peruvian artist. The girls of the second lot soon followed in the footsteps of their predecessors, and now the call has gone out for a third set. This time the request was the look of a cable to an expert, whose experience with feminine beauty might reasonably be expected to qualify him as a judge. The transaction probably ran something like this:Said Jean Patou to Florenz Ziegfeld:
"Pray send some beauties on to me!""I'll send you six I'm sure will do,"
Said Florenz Ziegfeld to Jean Patou.So the business of picking the six got under way. Girls who work for Ziegfeld were not encouraged to join the competition. But other candidates poured in by the hundreds. It seemed that every girl in New York who could boast of a passable face and figure wanted a job in Paris. Mr. Z. was mildly astonished, and asked the reason for the rush. The explanation, as given by some of the girls, was simple and to the point.The stage-door Johnnie, that silk-hatted son of tradition, has vanished into the limbo of lost endeavor. No longer does Tottie Twinkleton look forward with beating heart and itching palm to the meeting outside that discreet portal marked "Large but meaningless letters." "Stage Entrances—
No Admittance." Husbands—particularly husbands with bankrolls—
are now marked down and travelled to their doom in the scened corridors of the smart couturiers of Gay Paree.It all started when the first six glorified American beauties went over. They left their work to marry rich men—Mrs. Erskine Gwynne, the former Josephine
Armstrong, and Mrs. Fred Almy (nee June Dibble), being the most important cases in point—and the other beauties felt that they had been overlooking a great opportunity. The natural result was and is that most pulchritudinous young women didn't want to be annoyed with an apprenticeship on the Broadway stage before dropping a fly or so into the tempting pool of American millionaires that awaits
the Rue de la Paix. They wanted a route direct to the altar, with no stopovers.And so M. Patou and his Parisian collaborators are sitting in the driver's seat. Dictators of styles.
They are also dictators of what constitutes the ideal feminine form divine, and what they say goes. A girl who can shape up to their qualifications would far rather play manikin at the Casino in Cannes or at Auteuil and the other fashion courses before thousands of wealthy visitors than take a chance on a likely-to-be-limited engagement on Broadway. And there isMrs. Erskine Gwynne (Josephine Armstrong), another Patou selection,
who went to Paris as a mani-
kin and came back a millionaire's wife.Mrs. Fred Almy (June Dibble), one of the first of the American beau-tifuls to marry into plutocratic society.also the lure of the free evenings
in Paris, where they can study languages or the arts or what not.WITH Paris laying down the law on what constitutes the ideal feminine figure, styles
have changed. The perfect woman,
as outlined under the new rules,
should measure up to the standards tabulated on this page. The boyish form is out—a back number—an exploded fad—ausgespielt. Jean Patou will have none of the cropped and skimp type which in Paris is known as "La Garconne."
The French expert is looking for girls—"natural girls," with feminine figures, sveltes, not skinny with enough flesh on their bones to reveal beautiful curves and lines under their creations. It is important, among other things, that the girls should have lovely hair. Has he not grieved much in recent years
over the disappearance of a thing
so beautiful as the soft loveliness
of a woman's coiffure?THE NEW "NATURAL WOM-AN."According to Jean Patou and Florenz Ziegfeld:Weight 128 lbs.
Height 5 ft. 7 in.
Bust 34 in.
Waist 27 in.
Hips 35 in.
Calf 14 in.
Ankle 7 in.With M. Patou's standards laid down, and the American peach crop ready for the millionaires
habitués of the swell Parisian salons, it only remained for Mr. Z.
to make his selections.Walter Kingsley, who for years has helped to make up what the unregenerate might call the "Follies" form sheet, explained the basis of the selection of the new type of girl:The new girls are lovely and nice and much easier to handle than show girls have been in recent seasons," he said. "Their brain is better. They learn more quickly. They have more control over their nerves, more poise. Girls who are too much concerned with taking off weight and keeping it off are sure to break down and lose their health. They are less dependable.
The boyish girl is decidedly a back number. We stress the classification 'natural girl.' That is the type we set out to find this season. They are not fat, but svelte and distinct.

IN THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton.

FISH DISHES OF DISTINCTIVE FLAVOR.

FISH from sea, lake, river or the trusty can, are excellent if properly prepared. When fish are served in the average family home must be a dependable meal our
to be sure that the fish can be served at its best as soon as it is cooked. Suppose we treat ourselves to a fish dinner, then tell how the dishes are made.

Open two tumbler of large shrimp, drain and with a sharp-pointed knife remove the intestines down the backs, then split the shrimp open, but not entirely apart.
Make a stuffing of a teaspoonful
each of chopped celery, cream
pepper, a half package of cream cheese, a teaspoonful of sugar, a little pepper and salt, a half saltspoonful of curry powder, a teaspoonful of onion juice, the yolk of a hard boiled egg and a teaspoonful of butter.Work to a smooth paste, add a teaspoonful of highly seasoned French dressing and a little mayonnaise just to soften, to a spreading paste. Stuff the shrimp, pressing them together. Lay five on a large lettuce leaf to a portion, lay a stuffed olive in the center and dust with a little paprika.Drain and dry off a pound of scallops, then with a sharp knife cut them into small pieces. Make a rich cream sauce of three egg yolks, a cupful and a half of lightcream, pepper, salt, a tablespoonful of butter, and a level teaspoonful of cornstarch dissolved in a tiny bit of milk. Beat the egg yolks before using them in the cream and stir-steadily to make the sauce a fine texture. Add the scallops and cook gently for eight minutes. Cool slightly, then add a cupful of tomato juice, fill buttered ramekin dishes lightly with the mixture, put a little sprinkling of crumbs on top and dot with a few little pieces of butter, bake a delicate brown and serve hot. Pare, quarter and seed the cucumbers if the seeds are large, parboil in salted water for 10 minutes, drain, dip in beaten egg,
then in dry fine crumbs and fry in butter a delicate brown.Have any large local white fish prepared for baking, leave the head on after cleaning, but remove the eyes. Wash, dry and trim the fins
from the fish with sharp shears.
Rub over the entire fish with a buttered cloth or paper. Make a savory stuffing of fine crumbs, grated onion, chopped celery and pepper, a little dried mint crumbs, pepper, salt, a quarter teaspoonful of sugar, a tablespoonful of soft butter, a beaten egg to moisten.
Mix well and stuff the fish three-quarters full only so it will not burst, sew up the vent, fill the head
so there will be enough stuffing to go around. Put the fish on a greased rack in the baking pan and bake with the juice of half a lemon, a tablespoonful of melted
butter, a quarter cupful of water with a half teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce in it, well mixed.
When the fish is done add a half cupful of stock and a cupful of tomato juice to the dish, gars, bicken with a little roux and strain into a hot sauce boat.Boil the Milk
For the BabyIT is now generally conceded that in infant feeding boiled milk is the only absolutely safe milk.
Boiled milk is more digestible because the curds are much smaller.
Diarrhoeal conditions are the primary cause of infantile deaths during the summer months. Boiling
the milk will obviate this danger.
Boiled milk is not constipating
as is generally supposed.The milk which the city baby consumes is usually twenty-four hours old or even more. Even though it has been pasteurized changes take place in the milk in that time, although the milk is harmless to the adult, it may be very upsetting to the baby.We all know that typhoid fever
has often been traced to the milk,
so boiling it is a safeguard against this disease. Boil the milk five minutes, cool at once and place it in the refrigerator.Mothers object to boiling baby's milk because this process lessens
the vitamins, but this slight loss can easily be made up by the orange juice and in older children by increasing the daily
amounts of vegetables and fruits.
So be on the safe side and boil the baby's milk.A hand-operated pressure gauge
has been invented to test the ripeness of apples and other fruits.Fall Scarfs Are Made Of Kasha and VelvetTHE familiar three-cornered scarf is not to be dropped from the winter costume.Advance dress showings in Paris
include the scarf in many forms,
often made from Kasha, wool
georgette or printed velvet. Beige and flag red wool georgette and light-weight kashas are a favorite form.On wool sport dresses the scarf is sometimes knotted high about
the throat, with the ends in front, cravat fashion. Velvet scarfs are meant for afternoon wear and not for evening.PEGGY

Seek RepatriationFIFTEEN THOUSAND French-women married to foreigners
want to get back the French citizenship lost when they married."Only 15,000!" cry the French newspapers. And the thousands of others had only to declare before a justice of the peace that they desire to become French again.France wants these women. Depopulation. And a low birth-rate make so many possible mothers so much wealth for the state. Last year a law was voted to make possible their repatriation into French nationality. The law allowed them one year to make a declaration of their desire. This year was up Aug. 10.The chancellery has received 15,000 such requests. The law reads that any Frenchwoman marrying a foreigner may declare her intention of remaining of French nationality. There is also a retroactive clause giving the option to all Frenchwomen married to foreigners since 1914 to make their declaration within one year.Some of the complexity of the situation may be illustrated by a simple example. A Frenchwoman marrying an American previous to Aug. 10, 1927, has lost her French citizenship without automatically acquiring American citizenship. She is in a kind of "no-man's-land" of nationality unless she makes some move one way or the other.

BEGGING RADIO STATION IS PUT UPON PROBATION

Order Against KFWF, St. Louis Truth Center, for Failure to Account for Contributions.

$45,000 IN MORTGAGES HAVE BEEN CLEARED

Head of Religious Corporation Declines to Comment on Action of Federal Commission.

The Rev. Charles H. Hartmann, one of the three members of St. Louis Truth Center, Inc., 4030 Lindell boulevard, declined to comment today on the findings of the Federal Radio Commission, reducing the Truth Center radio station from 250 to 100 watts in power, and questioning the motives of the Truth Center corporation in soliciting money over the radio.

"The commission has been in extra doubt in this case," said the report, "as to whether to refuse to renew the applicant's license at all or to allow it to continue with reduced power and under a warning that it is to be regarded as being on probation. After careful consideration the commission has decided on the latter course."

The report states that although Truth Center, Inc., purports to be a religious corporation, there are three members, these being the Rev. Charles H. Hartmann, the Rev. Emil Clifford Hartmann, brother, and their sister, Mona. She repeatedly asked for over the radio but no report of the funds received, said the report, could be given by the Rev. Charles Hartmann when he was interrogated in Washington.

Cleared $45,000 Mortgages. Contributions received during the past few years, however, have been sufficient to pay off approximately $45,000 in mortgages on valuable property, which would go to the three Hartmanns if the religious corporation were dissolved, said the report.

"No record," the report stated, "is kept of the money that is given. The witness (Charles H. Hartmann) was unable to say how much he had drawn out of the corporation in the last year. He claimed that the money received was largely put into charitable work, but was unable to give any very definite information on this score."

There is of course no objection to appeals by radio for purely religious purposes, but the commission is not entirely satisfied that what has been done in the case of this station. The solicitation of contributions for purely private and selfish purposes is hardly a use of a radio station which can be found to be in the public interest, convenience, or necessity.

Furthermore, the solicitation of funds for one purpose and the use of them for another, cannot be considered to meet the test of the law," the report said. "The commission desires to be convinced by the future conduct of this station that it is being run for purposes other than selfish ones."

Complaints From Listeners. There have been many complaints from radio listeners that KFWF, the Truth Center station, which is centrally located, drowned out other stations near its wave length on Sunday mornings and evenings, and also on nights during the week. There were reports also, denied by the Rev. Charles H. Hartmann, that organized resistance had been attacked in noisome from the Truth Center.

Both the Rev. Charles Hartmann, and the Rev. Emil Hartmann practice the faith healing in the new auditorium they have built at the side of the large house they occupy at 4030 Lindell boulevard.

In refusing to comment on the charges of the radio commission, the Rev. Charles H. Hartmann said: "Why should I waste time saying anything here in St. Louis? I'll go down to Washington, D. C., and crack the whip there."

The reduction of the power of station KFWF will reduce its broadcasting range and make it more difficult for the drowning out of other stations.

Reservoir Dams: 30 Drowned. TOKIO, AUG. 20.—Thirty persons were reported drowned in the burst of a reservoir at the Komori Electric Power Station in Central Japan. The flood waters washed away nine houses.
